PATTULLO EXTENDS BIG PARK

Minister Announces Addition of 200 Square Miles to Garibaldi Area
Power Can Be Developed Without Marring Scenic Grandeur, He Says

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, announced to-day that an order-in-council had been passed extending the limits of Garibaldi Park at the head of Howe Sound, to include a mountainous and glacial area of 200 square miles.

The Cheakamus River, which is capable of producing a very considerable amount of water power, is situated within the limits of Garibaldi Park, but under the special legislation creating this park, provision is made whereby this power can be developed. The minister stated that the development of the power would not in the slightest degree detract from the scenic beauty and grandeur of Garibaldi Park.

The city of Vancouver had requested that a reserve should be maintained on the Cheakamus River, as the city desired to carry out investigations in connection with the Cheakamus power, and, as a matter of fact, did carry out these investigations.

WORK COST LESS THAN BID PRICE

Province Paid $16,545 Less Than Bid on Tenders Worth $263,815
Development of University Lands Explained to Legislators

Four contracts totalling $253,939, for curbing, sidewalks and paving at the University development projects at Point Grey, given A. B. Palmer and Company in 1926 by the Lands Department, were carried out at less than the estimates of the Government engineers and below the bids of the tenderers. It was shown at the Public Accounts Committee meeting this morning.

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, explaining the expenditures, showed that the Palmer bid on the first contract offered while not the lowest, had been most advantageous to the Government, as they offered completion of the work a full month ahead of any other bidder, so enabling other work to be carried out. The work was on a unit basis, and G. A. Walker extended price to the Provincial engineers for accuracy in estimates.

ASKS RETRACTION

On three of the contracts let to the Palmer Company the bids totaled $183,815, and the actual cost to the Province was $167,270. Manager Boyd of the General Construction Company, successors to the A. B. Palmer Co., asked the committee to rectify an impression broadcast from its hearings that his concern chiefly existed upon Government work. He showed that any contracts obtained had been in open tender and the work had been satisfactory. "While we are doing work for the Government we did much more for eighteen municipalities and other large concerns," Mr. Boyd protested.

B.C.-TO-LONDON TELEPHONE LINK SUCCESS TO-DAY

First Conversation By Wire and Radio Between Vancouver and London

Vancouver, March 8.—The first radio-telephone conversation between Vancouver and Great Britain took place at 9:30 o'clock this morning when J. P. D. Malkin, general manager of the W. H. Malkin Company Limited, called his brother, W. H. Malkin, president of the firm, who is in London in the course of a round-the-world trip.

The call was made from J. P. D. Malkin's ordinary telephone, Seymour 3790, to W. H. Malkin, at Victoria 3690, London. Each could hear the other quite distinctly, they declared.

After Mr. Malkin in Vancouver had spoken on business matters to his brother, J. P. D. Malkin, a third brother, sent his greetings from Vancouver and Dick Malkin, son of W. H. Malkin, also conversed with his father and with his sister, Lila, who also is in London.

H. W. Taylor, assistant manager of the Malkin firm, and W. L. Grundy, head of the manufacturing department, also spoke to the president of the company.

The call lasted four minutes and cost $76, the rate being $27 for the first three minutes and $19 for the additional minute.

French Vote Funds For New Legation at Ottawa

Paris, March 8.—The finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies to-day approved an appropriation for establishment of the French Legation at Ottawa. In approving the appropriation the committee estimated the establishment of diplomatic relations with Canada valuable for both trade and sentimental reasons.

The amount of the appropriation was not given.

House Sees Possibility Of Agreement On Voting Machinery Amendments

Possibility of general agreement on new provincial election machinery appeared in the Legislature Wednesday night after a lengthy discussion of the Government's new Elections Act amendments. The suggestion of Premier Maclean that the House in committee seek an arrangement in substitution for the absentee vote, satisfactory to both sides, and the counter-proposal of the Opposition that the whole question be referred to a small select committee, both were under consideration when discussion was adjourned.

Before adjournment of the question the Premier assured the members that the Government's only object in its new traveling voters' certificates proposal was to preserve the franchise for the entire public and to safeguard the sanctity of the ballot.

ACT IMPORTANT

"Our election act is the very basis of our democratic system of Government and is therefore a matter of very great importance," Premier Maclean observed. "Unless the people have confidence in it, confidence is shaken in the whole system of our Government. I feel we should have the franchise extended as widely as possible in carrying on our democratic system, and also the electors should have as much information on public questions as possible so that they vote on knowledge not prejudice."

"I believe," he added, "that all the decent-thinking people of British Columbia want the sanctity of the ballot maintained. Now the absentee vote has got a bad reputation and I do not believe in keeping on the statute books any part of an election machinery which even a comparatively small portion of the electors have lost confidence in. The Opposition takes credit for the intention of the Government to abolish the absentee vote, but with this I cannot agree as the records of the House show no resolution calling for any part of the election machinery which even a comparatively small portion of the electors have lost confidence in. HOUSE DRAWINGS SUBJECT OF APPEAL

Vancouver Legion Post's Scheme to Be Brought Before Appeal Court

Vancouver, March 8.—Whether a scheme for disposing of house property worth $75,000 at 1680 Matthews Avenue, Shaughnessy Heights, involved in a lottery is a question to be decided by the Court of Appeal of British Columbia.

From Magistrate H. C. Shaw's decision in the Vancouver police court that the scheme was a lottery, J. D. Tait, who was fined $50 for conducting the scheme, is appealing to the Court of Appeal.

Magistrate Shaw held the scheme was a general purchase of interests in the property, but was a subterfuge in which the essential elements of a lottery, namely, consideration, prize and chance, were all present.

Post Sixty of the Canadian Legion Building Limited entered into an agreement to purchase the property for $40,000 and appointed G. S. Heyward trustee to sell 125,000 one-dollar interests in it. Of the proceeds, sixteen cents of each dollar would go to build a hall for Post Sixty of the Canadian Legion in West Vancouver. Drawings would be held of the tickets and the winner would get the property.

J. D. Tait is managing director of the company and is a son of the late William L. Tait, who owned the property.

NEW ARTIFICIAL LIGHTNING STRONGER THAN SKY BOLTS

St. Louis, March 8.—If Zeus were still distributing lightning bolts from his retreat on Mount Olympus, he might have to look to his job, for the competition would be getting pretty keen.

Artificial lightning of 3,000,000 volts, the highest voltage ever attained by man, has been produced in the engineering laboratory of the General Electric Company at Pittsfield, Mass. Announcement of the achievement was made here last night by F. W. Peek, in charge of the work, in speaking before a regional convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

NEW GENERATOR

The new generator which can produce this tremendous voltage is unique in its operation, according to Mr. Peek. The electricity is gradually stored in artificial clouds just as a charge is stored by nature in real thunder clouds, and then is discharged in a flash that lasts only a few millionths of a second.

"Lightning sparks produced by these voltages and lasting only one-tenth-millionth of a second can be seen as a blinding flash," said the engineer. However, as light travels about 100 feet in that time, the phenomenon is all over when a person standing but 100 feet away sees it or when the light reaches him. Yet it appears to be there."

INFORMATION SOUGHT

"The object of the study," asserted Mr. Peek, "is to secure scientific information on the nature of electricity, and to obtain further engineering information on the protection of life and property against lightning, and to build transmission lines, transformers and other electrical apparatus to resist lightning voltages. The present generator produces higher voltages than are ever produced by natural lightning in transmission lines."

BRITISH AIRMEN PLAN LONG FLIGHTS

Hinchcliffe and Companion Hope to Reach India and United States

London, March 8.—Capt. Walter Hinchcliffe, British aviator, announced to-day he was planning an aeroplane flight from Europe to the United States in May or June, but would first attempt a non-stop flight from England to India as a preliminary test.

The flier thus cleared up the mystery surrounding his plans. "My destination will be Karachi, 4,000 miles from my starting point, and it will be three weeks before the test flight is undertaken," he said.

London, March 8.—Mrs. Walter G. Hinchcliffe, to-day said her husband, Captain Hinchcliffe, had no intention of flying to the United States, at least until he had made a trip to India.

She told the Associated Press that Captain Hinchcliffe, with Captain Gordon Sinclair, a reserve Air Force pilot, was now at Cranwell, getting a Stinson.

PRIVY COUNCIL JUDGMENT DEBATE IN BRITISH HOUSE

Some of Conservatives Object to Irish Free State Rejecting Recent Ruling

London, March 8.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A number of Conservative members of the House of Commons are opposed to the Baldwin Government's concurrence in the Irish Free State Parliament's proposed legislation to set aside the recent judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council with reference to the rights of transferred civil servants in Ireland under the treaty between Great Britain and the Irish Free State, and have passed a resolution regretting the Government's attitude in the matter. They have decided to ask for an explanation with regard to it from Rt. Hon. L. C. M. Amery, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, at a special meeting of the Conservative Party.

LORD CARSON TO SPEAK

Lord Carson intends raising the question of the Privy Council's judgment and the Irish Free State's position in the matter and was to have done so in the House of Lords to-day, but owing to the illness of Viscount Cave, Lord Chancellor, who delivered the judgment in question, postponed the resolution.

Lieut.-Col. Amery was questioned in the House of Commons February 27 on the subject of the Irish Free State Government having decided not to give effect to the judgment of the Privy Council that the Free State Minister of Finance had no discretion in the matter of compensation to be given transferred civil servants retiring under the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

Mr. Amery intimated the British Government concurred in the Free State Government's proposed policy whereby Free State civil servants would be put in a position corresponding with that of civil servants in Great Britain.

SUBWAY STRIKE MENACE GROWS IN NEW YORK

Interborough Company Discharges Twenty-one Employees
Men Are Under Pledge to Mayor Walker Not to Strike Before Saturday

New York, March 8.—With the union abiding by its pledge to Mayor James J. Walker to defer strike action until Saturday, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to-day had added ten more names to the list of twenty-one union men it had previously discharged.

Officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees termed the action a "deliberate attempt to provoke a strike," and the mayor was said to be displeased with the action and contemplating an appeal to the Interborough Rapid Transit directors for a more tolerant attitude.

The present controversy was brought on by the company's resistance of efforts of the union to organize the workers on its subway and elevated, and the mayor was represented as seeking a more tolerant attitude by the company pending a court decision on the labor body's right to organize the company's lines. Such action is now pending in the courts.

The Interborough Company meanwhile is continuing to train the men it has assembled to take the place of union men who have been discharged. Estimates place their number at 1,800. A strike on the lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit lines would affect millions of citizens.

BRAZIL URGED TO REMAIN MEMBER OF WORLD LEAGUE

Council Also Asks Spain to Reconsider Decision to Withdraw From Organization

Geneva, March 8.—The Council of the League of Nations to-day took steps calculated to stay the withdrawal of Brazil and Spain from the League.

Francisco Jose Urrutia of Colombia, presiding at the session, called attention to the approaching expiration of the notice of withdrawal of the two countries. He proposed an appeal be sent them to reconsider the situation. Senior Urrutia suggested the presentation of a resolution at a later stage which might be sent them, accompanied by a letter signed by the president of the Council in appeal of its members.

Each member of the Council supported the proposal in a speech and the suggestion was adopted.

NOT TO REMAIN SILENT

In opening his speech Senior Urrutia said Brazil would cease to be a member of the League at the next meeting of the Council and Spain at the following meeting.

"It would be wrong for us to remain silent or even confine ourselves to a mere expression of regret," he said. "I think we should not hesitate to invite the two governments to consider whether the reasons which caused them to resign are so strong in 1928 that they feel bound to take the final step. I do not think the council should be deterred by any fear that they might meet with an unfavorable response and that the Council's prestige might suffer."

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, and M. Briand, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, supported him.

BIDS INVITED FOR ERECTION OF WORSTED MILL

Tenders For Montreal Street Structures Open With Architect Percy Fox Saturday
Plans Call For Main Mill Building With Floor Space Measuring 235 By 100 Feet

Victoria's worsted mill project reached a new stage of development to-day with the announcement that tenders are being invited for the completion of the mill buildings.

Architect Percy Fox, who has completed the working drawings for the main mill building, offices and boiler house, states to-day that tenders for this work would be open on Saturday next and would close one week later.

The plans call for the erection of the mill structure proper which will have a floor space measuring 235 feet by 100 feet, and will be of heavy timber construction on a concrete base. The office building and boiler house will be of brick construction with asphalt roof.

The worsted mill, which is being built by the B.C. Worsted Mills Limited, stands on an admirable site on Montreal Street, between Niagara Street and Dallas Road, and in immediate proximity to the Outer Docks.

In its efforts to promote industrial development the city granted a free site and taxation and water privilege. John Moore, the promoter of the worsted mill project here, is an experienced and practical man in the woolen industry, and will take over the management of the plant when it is completed and ready for operation.

Mr. Moore is at present in Bradford, Eng., where he is completing arrangements to ship modern worsted mill machinery direct to this city for installation in the new plant. The mill will start the manufacture of worsted this summer. It is expected that the mill will employ over one hundred operatives.

BIG ROBBERY IN CHICAGO SUBURB

Chicago, March 8.—Two robbers bound watchmen of the Borin Manufacturing Company of Cicero, a suburb of Chicago, early to-day and looted two safes of $175,000 in negotiable securities and jewelry.

They also took patent formulas, contracts and a list of customers of the company, manufacturers of picture frames and mirrors, which President Nathan Borin said were worth $30,000.

The loot included $500,000 in non-negotiable stock of the company, $100,000 in stock of two subsidiary firms, $8,000 in stocks and bonds owned by Borin and $7,000 worth of jewelry.

BRITISH DEFENCE GROUPS MOVE IN ARABIA REGION

Aeroplane, Tanks and Troops Prepare to Resist Tribes' Attacks

London, March 8.—British preparations for the "Holy War" in Arabia continued to-day. Men, armoured cars, tanks and aeroplanes were being mobilized along the border of Transjordan to turn back any attack by Wahabi tribesmen, headed by Ibn Saud, King of Hedjaz and Sultan of Nejd.

FORCES MOBILIZED

A dispatch to The London Daily Mail from Jaffa told of preparations being made by the British authorities in Palestine. The frontier force was being mobilized. All officers and men were recalled from leave. An armoured car company left Ramleh, Palestine, for Amman, Palestine, yesterday. Several aeroplanes, each understood to be carrying twenty men, passed over Jaffa Tuesday en route from Egypt to Amman. A Jewish Telegraphic Agency dispatch from Jerusalem said twenty-two aeroplanes and seven tanks had been sent to the Transjordanian frontier.

CAIRO POLICE CLUB MANY IN RIOT GANGS

Eight Guards and Twenty-eight Students Injured in One of Outbreaks
Disturbances Said to Be Outgrowth of British-Egyptian Issue

Cairo, Egypt, March 8.—Student disturbances growing out of the Anglo-Egyptian question were witnessed in Cairo this morning. A body of 1,500 striking students marched to Nationalist headquarters and stoned the police, the latter scattering the demonstrators after a charge.

In the mix-up eight policemen and twenty-eight students were injured and were carried into the Nationalist headquarters, where they were given medical attention.

The brush with the police preceded rioting in other streets and many of the rioters were clubbed.

As part of the same Nationalist demonstration, school boys at Tanta, fifty-five miles northwest of Cairo, burned three automobiles, including one belonging to the Egyptian commander, who was severely man-handled.

COURT TO RULE ON SCHOOL QUESTION

Privy Council in London to Decide Ontario Separate High Schools Proposal

London, March 8.—Judgment on the appeal of the Tiny Township (Ontario) separate school trustees was reserved to-day by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council here. It is thought improbable the decision will be announced before Easter.

The appeal was taken by the Tiny Township separate school trustees against the Canadian Supreme Court's judgment dismissing their appeal, which if upheld would have had the effect of permitting the setting up of high schools and collegiate institutes in Ontario under Roman Catholic boards of trustees.

The appellants challenge the validity of a whole section of the Ontario Education Act, and have sought to have the section in question declared beyond the legal power or authority of the province of Ontario. They also challenge the authority of the province to tax supporters of the separate schools for the maintenance of continuation schools, collegiate institutes or high schools not established or controlled by boards of trustees of Roman Catholic separate schools.

EIGHT DROWNED WHEN JAPANESE CRAFT SENT DOWN

Tokio, March 8.—The United States freighter West Cadron, shortly after leaving the port of Ocaru this morning bound for Portland, Ore., ran down a Japanese motor vessel. The smaller boat sank immediately and all of the eight in the crew were drowned.

The West Cadron returned to Ocaru.

FISH FROM ORIENTAL WATERS CAUGHT NEAR PORT ANGELES

Port Angeles, March 8.—Local ichthyologists are baffled. Fred Lonsdale, twenty-four, was surf fishing at Agate Beach and landed a four-foot fish. He sloped to pick it from the rocks and the fish attacked him, snapping wolf-like jaws. The creature resembled a barracuda, a stranger to northern waters, although the long high dorsal fin running the entire length of the back barred it from that classification. It resembled a sawfish except in the head. It had long, sharp teeth and large eyes.

Fishermen thought it was a Columbian River sturgeon or "flying sturgeon," but examination of many volumes of fish has failed to disclose a picture of such a fish.

Local fish authorities are of the opinion it was a fish strayed away from Oriental waters. They point out that Portuguese men-of-war in great numbers are stranded on Pacific beaches now and then, and that sea serpents that frightened Indian seal hunters were found to be Oriental sunfish, far from their regular haunts.

Woman To-day Is Sent to B.C. Penitentiary

Vancouver, March 8.—For the first time in many years a woman to-day received a penitentiary term in the police court here when Margaret H. C. Shaw sent Margaret Noble to prison for two years on three charges of uttering forged cheques and two charges of obtaining money on worthless cheques. The sums involved totaled $130.

The convicted woman collapsed when sentence was pronounced and had to be assisted by L. Harris, inspector. The magistrate, in passing sentence, said the charges against the woman were of a most serious nature and she had refused to profit from past experiences where leniency had been granted in court.

MANY ARE KILLED BY REDS IN CHINA

Communists Move Into Kwangtung Province After Raids in Hunan

Hankow, China, March 8.—Chinese sources, in giving details of the recent massacre at Leiyang, said to-day communists and disbanded soldiers fired the houses of all the well-to-do citizens, who were penned inside with the women and children and burned to death.

Everybody who appeared to be prosperous was murdered in the southern Hunan city. Usually the victims were tortured first. Whole families were so treated. Parents were compelled to watch their children tortured.

Several foreign missionaries were in the Leiyang area at the time and their fate is not known.

Anti-communist troops from Hankow have occupied Leiyang since the massacre and the marauders have gone to Kwangtung Province, where they are reported to be continuing their outrages.

DEATH OF ACTOR
MOURNED IN U.S.

William H. Crane Succumbed in Hollywood in Eighty-third Year

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—Hollywood, in common with the rest of the United States, to-day mourned the passing of a noted actor as arrangements for the funeral of the late William H. Crane were being made.

Crane, known around the world as one of the stage's greatest comedians, died yesterday in his eighty-third year. William H. Crane's theatrical career carried him through fifty-three seasons to a pinnacle unsurpassed by any comedian in the last two generations. It was paralleled in success by his home life, which included more than half a century of wedded happiness, and was marked by a philosophy of "looking forward" which he indulged virtually until his death.

When the actor answered his last curtain call and retired amidst the applause and remembrances of his colorful years, he remarked of Mrs. Crane: "She's not my better half; she's my better seven-eighths."

Seemingly imbued with physical and mental energy, Crane told his guests at his eightieth birthday anniversary celebration: "Now that my theatrical career is drawing to a close, I want to write my memoirs. Life is not worth living unless one is doing the thing one wants to do. I want to do just one more play and then I have accomplished that, writing will be my occupation for the rest of my days."

Beginning his acting at a salary of "nothing a week," Crane was credited with having accumulated one of the largest fortunes ever made by an individual on the stage.

BORN IN MASSACHUSETTS

He was born at Leicester, Mass., April 30, 1845, the son of Amos and Anne. He received most of his schooling in Boston, where his mimicry and teachers won him recognition as an impersonator, but played havoc with his department card. Crane acted all sorts of comic characters in "The Senator," "The American Minister," "The Governor of Kentucky," "His Wife's Father," "Father and the Boys," "David Harum," and numerous other plays.

Most of his time was spent in New York City during his active stage days, but in the closing years he established his "Fishing Box" at Cohasset, Mass., on the sea near Boston. He purchased a cottage and with a yearly addition or extension transformed it into a villa. Life on the water was a passion with him and he spent much of his leisure on his yacht. The Cranes deserted the "Fishing Box" and New York for Hollywood when the motion picture city began to assume importance.

"Aerial Magellan" Tells of His Plans to Fly Nearly 25,000 Miles in HOP AROUND CAPE HORN

First Circuit Tour Begins in March

Note: From Fresno, Cal., two aviators soon are to take off on a 25,000-mile flight through Mexico and Central and South America. The chief pilot will be James C. Angel, former pursuit instructor in the British air service, later an instructor in the Italian, Bolivian and North Chinese air corps. He inaugurated the Mexican air mail service. Angel has written an article describing his plans for the "Hop Around the Horn."

By JAMES C. ANGEL

San Diego, Cal., March 6.—Around the Horn in an aeroplane! In a few weeks, how, we are going to set sail in a twentieth century ship for the far-southern straits that Magellan discovered in 1520. Since then, many a square-rigger has passed through there on its way to the Pacific, but no aeroplane has made the trip. Fresno Stephenson is going with me as co-pilot.

ANOTHER "GOOD WILL" FLIGHT

In a way, we are seeking to add to what Col. Charles A. Lindbergh already has accomplished for the peace and prosperity of the Western Hemisphere. We want to demonstrate the practicability of connecting North America by air with the countries to the south.

When I mentioned the idea to F. W. Hemmingsway, president of Beacon Airways, he immediately agreed to arrange the trip. Hemmingsway is a young man. An older one might have hesitated, pointed out the dangers of a 25,000-mile flight. But I have flown over Mexico and South America, know the terrain in a general way, and am sure that we should have little difficulty.

TO MEXICO IN A DAY

Our first hop will be non-stop from Fresno to Mexico City, a distance of 1,750 miles. We expect to complete this between dawn and night, in about ten hours. The plane, equipped as it will be for the flight, already has flown 200 miles an hour. Such speeds in the air are neither impractical nor unreasonable.

We also will attempt to make the complete circuit of 25,000 miles without carrying spares parts for the motor. That might sound foolhardy, but it is not. A motor of the type we selected has run continuously for 400 hours at three-thousand revolutions. Our total flying time on the trip should not exceed 250 hours.

The ship we will use is a special Fokker biplane equipped with 300-horsepower Hall motor. This power plant is of six-cylinder design, is water-cooled, and has several new features which should make for smooth performance.

LONG RANGE RADIO

We will have a radio set capable of transmitting messages 12,000 miles. It was designed by William Eitel, a young inventor living near Fresno. The radio will send our air speed automatically from a wind-driven generator. Thus our progress, in the form of our speed and call letters, may be followed by the world from coast to coast.

When we take off from the municipal airport at Fresno we will have in our tanks 157 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil. Our fuel tank, which will fly a direct course down California, across the Salton Sea and the Imperial Valley, across the international border into Mexico, and dash for the capital of Mexico.

The first men to fly around Cape Horn in an aeroplane may be the two pictured here. James C. Angel, lower left, and Fresno Stephenson intend to take off from Fresno, Cal., in March. Here is the ship which they will use and the 25,000-mile route they intend to follow.

For at least 1,000 miles we will fly over country where an aeroplane with the high landing speed of seventy-five miles an hour cannot land. We must stay in the air.

FAMILIAR ROUTES

After Mexico City, our first hop will carry us down the Mexican air mail route to Tampico. Many times I have flown that course, carrying the air mail and oil companies' pay rolls. During daylight hours we will hop on from Tampico to Vera Cruz, to Guatemala, to Costa Rica, to Panama, to Columbia, to Bolivia, to Paraguay, to Argentina, to the Straits of Magellan, 2,000 miles in two jumps—to Patagonia—then on to Chile—to Peru—to Ecuador—to Panama—and home. Thus we hope to complete in two months a gigantic figure eight, whose lines measure nearly 25,000 miles, or the circumference of the globe.

MAY NOT USE COMPASS

Odd as it may seem, I believe I can fly the entire distance without a compass. We will not be foolhardy, however. We will carry both a magnetic and an earth inductor compass, duplicating those used by Colonel Lindbergh in the Spirit of St. Louis.

Our plane is relatively small. The upper wing measures twenty-seven feet six inches, from tip to tip, while the lower wing is twenty-three feet three inches long. The plane, in fact, is a triplane. A third wing is located below the landing gear, between the wheels. This serves to lift the landing gear and relieves the upper wings to that extent.

Both the plane and the motor have been flown more than 100 hours. We do not trust to chance in operating them. At each stopping place I shall examine the motor thoroughly and inspect the plane most microscopically. These examinations should reveal any minor troubles that may develop, and these can be checked before they become serious.

MISSION GAS BOATS DO HUMANE WORK IN ISOLATED DISTRICTS

Rev. G. Pringle of United Church Marine Mission Tells of Relief Given Sufferers in Out-of-the-way Logging Camps and Fishing Settlements; Boats Bring Aid and Cheer to Lonely Settlers

Humane work that the Marine Mission of the United Church of Canada is doing among the logging camps and fishing settlements of the West Coast of Vancouver Island and the coast of the Mainland of British Columbia formed the subject of an interesting address given last evening at the Centennial Church by Rev. George C. Pringle who is in charge of the mission boat Sky Pilot, with headquarters at Vananda, Texada Island, B.C.

Mr. Pringle is a gifted speaker and a large audience listened to his gripping story of the mission boats visiting the lonely settlements of the isolated districts of British Columbia. The speaker pointed out that, engaged in the mission work of the coast were five forty-foot gas boats, all with their clergymen and their captains or engineers. The district of Queen Charlotte was looked after by the Thomas Crosby, who had as her captain, William Oliver, and her minister, Rev. R. C. Scott, B.A.; the boat Edward White, with Rev. G. B. Richmond as captain and Rev. S. V. H. Redman on the boat William Oliver, had charge of Alert Bay district; Port Alberni district was looked after by Rev. C. E. Motie on the boat Broadwater, and Mr. Pringle and the engineer, Oswald Treloar had charge of the Sky Pilot of Vananda.

THREE HOSPITALS

The Marine Mission operated three hospitals, he said, one at Hazelton in charge of Rev. H. C. Winch, D.D., M.D.; one at Port Simpson in charge of William Sager, B.A., M.D., and one at Bella Bella in charge of George Darby, B.A., M.D. These hospitals were indispensable in the districts which they serve. Mr. Pringle pointed out, as there were so many logging camps in the vicinity which were always needing help for their injured loggers.

In an interesting resume of the work done on his boat, Mr. Pringle told of the humane trips made to tend the sick and injured, to help settlers in financial difficulties, to bury the dead and to perform christening ceremonies and marriages. The books, both novels and history books, which are carried on the ships and distributed at the various camps and settlements were

Metalophone Locates Ship's Cable Under Sea But No Trace of Car

Searchers Near End of Resources After Two Weeks Diligent Work

Vancouver, March 8.—Active Pass continues to guard the secret of the disappearance of Pete Olson and John Nicholson, both of Vancouver, who are thought to have been drowned thirteen days ago when Olson's auto, in which the men were sleeping, crashed from the freight dock of the C.P. St. Princess Louise en route from Vancouver to Victoria.

The metalophone, electrical device invented by W. E. Clayton, was used Thursday and located metal in forty fathoms of water, but it was not believed to be the missing car. Captain R. W. McMurray, marine superintendent B.C. Coast S.S. Service, who is in charge of the operations, stated that he judge by the length of the metal located that it was a ship's cable chain or something of the sort. The search will be carried on again to-day.

If the metalophone fails to find the auto the last hope of clearing up the mystery will be given up, since the search began on the day of the accident, not a trace of either men or car has been discovered. Crews of the launches and tugs cruising over every foot of the pass have not even seen a hat, or any other article of clothing.

ADVANCED POLL INADEQUATE

The Premier referred to the suggestion that the absentee vote be replaced by an advanced poll, but declared this would not meet the situation. It might work in a thickly settled province but here some more elastic system was required to provide the franchise for a large itinerant class of workers who were entitled to vote but could not remain at home to do so. "I am not wedded to any particular system, provided it fulfills the conditions of this Province with its seasonal employment in many lines and large population of workers constantly on the move," he said.

The Premier suggested that the Elections Act amendments be given second reading and that the House consider them in detail and reach an agreement. If any clauses in the act proved objectionable to a majority they could be eliminated.

"What we are most anxious to do," he asserted, "is to have a bill that will have the confidence of the House and the people. Surely we can work out something that will have the confidence of all."

When R. H. Pooley, Opposition leader, pressed for a select committee to consider the matter, the Premier agreed that this step could be taken if progress proved difficult in committee of the whole House.

Colonel W. Peck, V.C., Conservative, The Islands, supported the proposal that a special committee examine the measure and endeavor to make it workable. He was not satisfied with the traveler's certificate form of absentee vote, as it was open to abuse, was difficult to administer in large ridings, such as Atlin and Port George, and in an election. He favored the Federal advance vote.

Major R. J. Burde, Independent of Alberni, advocated the absentee vote to handle the case of fishermen in his riding.

Sound March 15 to 20, and will be the first sailing of a regular monthly schedule to San Juan.

BRITISH AIR ESTIMATES ARE UP $3,500,000

London, March 8.—The British air estimates for 1928 total £1,625,000 ($8,125,000), an increase of £200,000 ($3,000,000) over last year's.

The personnel will be cut, however, 32,000 persons being provided for in the 1928 estimates as against 33,000 in 1927.

Large Property Deal

Vancouver, March 8.—Property on the west side of Granville Street, at the south corner of the lane between Pender and Dunsmuir Streets, now occupied by the Canadian National Railways, has been purchased by H. K. Gray and J. Russell Gray, brothers, for a price reported to be $250,000.

The vendor is a well-known Vancouver business man.

The property has fifty feet frontage on Granville Street and extends 130 feet to the lane.

It was purchased as an investment, the Gray brothers declare and no immediate change in the building are contemplated.

MURDERER IN MEXICO CAUGHT

Mexico City, March 8.—A price of only five pesos for a murder, which modest figure attracted a considerable clientele, was charged by Gregorio Sanchez, a professional assassin, who had just been wounded and captured near Choluta, in the State of Puebla.

A dispatch to El Excelsior says Sanchez had no occupation except assassination and was ready to kill anybody at any time provided the five pesos were forthcoming. He had enough customers to enable him to earn a good living.

The police said they found in his pocket "a sheet of paper half-filled with names of persons he had assassinated."

The dispatch neglected to give any total.

Treaty Egypt Rejected Had Fourteen Points

London, March 8.—The Anglo-Egyptian treaty draft, which was rejected by the Egyptian Government after being agreed to by Barakat Pasha, Egyptian Premier, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, contained fourteen points.

An annex to the treaty stipulated that British personnel on the existing scale should be maintained in the Egyptian army for ten years. The passage of aircraft over territory on either side of the Suez Canal and within twenty kilometres of it would have been prohibited, except Anglo-Egyptian aircraft.

CHIEF TERMS

The chief articles of the treaty set forth that Egypt would not oppose British policy in foreign countries and would not conclude with a foreign power any agreement prejudicial to British interests. Britain, subject to the League of Nations, would undertake to aid Egypt as a belligerent; the Egyptian army would be trained by British methods; in the event of Britain being engaged in war, Egypt would undertake to give her all possible assistance; Britain would be represented in Egypt by an ambassador with precedence over all other foreign representatives; Egypt, by engaging foreign officials, would give preference to Britishers, and other nationals would be engaged only if qualified Britishers were not available.

GOODWIN IS TO APPEAR FRIDAY FOR SENTENCE

SECOND TRIAL

The trial, which has just ended was Goodwin's second charge of having murdered Patterson. At his first trial Goodwin was convicted of the crime and sentenced to death. An appeal to the Supreme Court of California won a second trial for him, which started February 20, last.

The prosecution in the first trial contended Goodwin and his alleged accomplice, Dewey Gaines, now serving a sentence in Folsom prison on conviction of having shared in the murder of Patterson, plotted the murder in order to finance the writing of a play by Goodwin. Handwriting experts during the trial just ended, testified that Goodwin, as well as Gaines, had forged Patterson's name to securities, and that Gaines had cashed cheques bearing the forged signature of Patterson.

REFUSED TO TESTIFY

Gaines was brought here from Folsom prison to testify against Goodwin, but refused to testify, stating that if he should do so the other convicts at Folsom would make life miserable for him. He was held in contempt, and each day brought into the court room to testify and each day he refused.

The only sensation in the trial just ended came when Ruth Walsh, a friend of the slain man, identified a belt buckle and a watch chain found with the charred remains as the property of Patterson.

A. E. Munn, Lillooet, remarked that such publicity was inseparable from government work, and that no reflections had been cast upon the Palmer Company.

R. H. Pooley asked for details of a contract let in March, 1927, on which no payments were made until May, but was overruled by Chairman Mackenzie. He appealed to Hon. T. D. Pattullo for details, asserting the conditions similar to inclusion of the full Gauthier-Carlson costs of last summer in the accounts closed March 31, 1927. Mr. Pattullo refused to interfere in the administration of the Public Accounts Committee, remarking that he considered ample scope for inquiry to exist in the $1,000,000 already included in the University development accounts as presented.

The Caribaldi Park Board is now calling for tenders in connection with necessary accommodations in the development of the park area.

NEED MACHINERY

The Minister of Lands stated that the necessity of having administrative machinery to properly handle and develop park areas is well illustrated in the case of Caribaldi Park. This park is there in perpetuity and of transcendent magnitude, the minister declared, yet the Cheakamus River power could be developed, and would be lost in the park area now added to the park, not to speak of the whole park, which contains 460 square miles.

The minister stated that there were not existing machinery in connection with the Caribaldi Park, but to provide for the development of water power he would not have recommended the setting aside of the additional area of 200 square miles for park purposes, but that with the Act as it is, both industry and park purposes alike could be served.

BRITISH DEFENCE GROUPS MOVE IN ARABIA REGION

ANXIETY IN PALESTINE

The people of Palestine were stated to be watching with some anxiety the extensive preparations to utilize for the first time the Royal Air Force stationed at Ramleh and Sarafand. Observers commented that Ibn Saud had chosen a propitious moment for declaring a "holy war" against the "infidels," since aeroplane fighting is difficult in the hot months.

Armored trains to-day patrolled the Baghdad-Basra railway in Iraq. Advances received at Basra said the Afjman and other Wahabi tribes which have been united in the border warfare have received rifles, ammunition, food and tents from Ibn Saud.

UPRISING REPORTED

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency said Iraq newspapers reported an uprising had occurred in Najda, stronghold of Ibn Saud. It was also said advances from Basra were that a Wahabi force, led by Sheikh Dowlat, was marching toward Iraq with 1,400 camels. British aeroplane scouts, however, reported that had seen no signs of hostile movement in the desert.

Answering a question in the House of Commons yesterday, the Government denied there had been mutual raids between Transjordan and Nejd.

EGYPTIAN SITUATION

In another section of the Near East, British relations with natives were to the fore to-day.

Egypt, Serwat Pasha resigned as Premier when his attempts to negotiate an Anglo-Egyptian alliance failed. The British Government handed Egypt a stern note saying in effect that full independence should not be granted that country at present.

Egypt refuses to sign any treaty of alliance with Great Britain which allows the British to maintain troops in Egypt or to have any control over the native police.

The British Government firmly intends to keep its troops in Egypt, believing them necessary for the protection of the Suez Canal.

The insistence on controlling the native police is understood to be to prevent any situation arising which might result in some other power taking a hand in Egyptian affairs.

INQUIRY PLANNED TO AID SYSTEM OF IMMIGRATION STARTED TO-DAY IN OTTAWA

FIRST WITNESS

The larger part of the first sitting was devoted to the evidence given by W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration, who explained the workings of the department in the United States, the British Isles and Continental Europe.

The Deputy Minister emphasized that the department had no confining agreement with any public or private bodies, but that various organizations co-operated with the department in bringing immigrants to Canada.

Mr. Egan stated one commissioner presided over each of the three districts in Canada.

To Mr. Edwards Mr. Egan said children under fourteen were not admitted as immigrants unless accompanied by their parents. This rule had been in force for three years and had followed the recommendation of the Minister of Immigration, who explained the workings of the department in the United States, the British Isles and Continental Europe.

Mr. Egan stated one commissioner presided over each of the three districts in Canada.

Mr. Egan said he would use his judgment as to admitting children for placement. He regarded immigrants as the wards of the department.

Mr. Cahan asked by what authority Mr. Forke had this discretion, which the Minister replied that the act gave him considerable authority in those cases.

Mr. Cahan objected to Mr. Forke making a statement, and the Minister said that if he could assist his deputy to reply to any question he fully intended to do so.

Mr. Egan stated there was no assisted passage in any form for immigrants coming from the continent of Europe.

PUBLIC CHARGES NOT WANTED

He said that were he an immigration officer he would exclude any boy under fourteen years of age who sought to enter Canada. He would do so on the ground that a boy of that age might become a public charge. He referred, of course, to boys coming to Canada "on their own."

Mr. Egan was still on the stand when the committee adjourned until next Tuesday.

It was arranged that Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister of Health, should attend the next meeting.

Ottawa, March 8.—The inquiry into problems of immigration by the standing committee of the Commons on agriculture and colonization was opened here to-day. The chairman of the committee is W. F. Kay, Liberal, Brome-Missisquoi, Quebec.

The terms of the reference are wide and bring the whole immigration act and regulations attached to it under survey. The reference reads: "That the Immigration Act and the regulations thereunder and the general subject of immigration, including the work of the Department of Immigration and Colonization, be referred to the committee on agriculture and colonization for consideration and report."

LIST OF SUBJECTS

In the matter of procedure it was suggested by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, that a programme be prepared so the committee might know from day to day what subject was to be taken up. The minister also declared that if the committee was to take the form of an "inquiry" the officials of the department should be told. If it were a round table conference, called to review the policy and the functioning of the department, or if an inquiry out of which charges might be leveled against them, they should know the atmosphere into which they were being summoned.

JONES IRRIGATION PLAN OUT OF ORDER

An amendment to the Water Act, moved in the Legislature yesterday by J. W. Jones, of South Okanagan, to increase from one-fourth to one-third the maximum relief the Government may grant to the interior irrigation districts, on their loan principal and interest owing to the Conservation Fund for the period expiring at December 31, 1923, was ruled out of order at the instance of Hon. E. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands. He contended that the motion interfered with the revenues of the Crown, and could only be moved on behalf of the Government.

HOMES EXEMPT FROM GASOLINE TAX SEARCHES

Gasoline Legislation Gives House Concern; Search Powers Are Restricted

Legislation which is designed to put the British Columbia gasoline tax beyond all possibility of legal attack was approved by the Legislature last night, but not until it had been amended by Attorney-General Manson, its sponsor. The clause which a sharp discussion centred for an hour would have allowed Government officials to enter any building in search of gasoline in which the Government tax has not been paid. In the end the House exempted private homes from such a search.

When the clause giving the right of search without a warrant for gasoline which had not paid taxes to the Government was called B. H. Pooley, Opposition Leader, sprang to his feet. "This thing has gone far enough," he declared. "There has got to be a stop put to this right of search by inspectors. We've got to call a halt to this sort of thing; the giving of the right to any inspector to walk into a man's home whenever and however he likes. A man's home was supposed to be his castle. It's an old British right. The sooner someone puts a charge of buckshot into one of these men walking into a private home without a warrant, the sooner the attention of the public will be drawn to this state of affairs that exists."

Attorney-General Manson declared that he was shocked beyond words to think that a responsible leader of a party in the House would make use of such words in advocating the pouring of a charge of buckshot into a law officer of the Crown.

"It is the most amazing statement ever made in this House," repeated the Minister. "The responsibility must rest upon the Leader of the Opposition for what he has said."

"I'll do that," retorted Mr. Pooley, adding that his was not the responsibility that made such a statement necessary.

WILL BE REASONABLE

The Attorney-General said that he viewed the provision for gasoline tax inspectors being permitted to search without a warrant as an act which would be viewed with common sense. The Finance Minister, he was sure, would not give authority as an inspector to any but proper persons—to men who would do the right thing. "The principle of the thing is vicious," said C. F. Davies, Cowichan-Newcastle. "I want to say that if I find any man prowling around my home at night without a warrant he's liable to get a charge of buckshot—and I mean it. That, however, is not the question; it is one of principle—an old British principle, that a man's home is his castle—and it's being done away with in this Province. There are already liquor board inspectors and others who have that right and it's wrong. It had been protested before. Paul Harrison, Liberal, declared that he would not stand for the domicile of a person to be invaded in the manner permitted by the proposed bill. Colonel Cyrus Peck, V.C., Conservative, The Islands, interjected that if indignation was caused by the suggestion that buckshot be used upon inspectors, "Honorable gentlemen might use No. 6 or some smaller shot."

After further argument the Attorney-General agreed to insert an amendment which would limit search of premises to other than private homes. The bill provides that all vendors of gasoline must be licensed and must collect a tax of three cents a gallon on all gasoline sold for motor vehicular purposes.

Catherwood, Conservative, Dewdney, proposed an amendment to the bill providing that the taxes collected must be used for highway purposes, but this was promptly ruled to be out of order by Ian MacKenzie, committee chairman, upon the ground that it was a dictation of Government policy.

Langford

Langford, March 8.—The general meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Prince Edward branch No. 19, Canadian Legion, was held at the new Club House Monday night. The president, Mrs. Meredith Jones, was in the chair. The financial statement was considered very satisfactory as all bills for furnishing the kitchen and club room had been met.

The ladies decided to hold a St. Patrick's card party on March 15 in their new quarters and an executive meeting will be held at Colwood on March 30. At the conclusion of the business, the ladies were joined by the men of the Prince Albert branch and refreshments served by Mrs. P. Forman and Mrs. Edwards Shields.

Owing to the investigation committee not having their data ready, the open tennis meeting has been adjourned until March 12, at 8 p.m., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Le Queune, Goldstream Road.

The next game of the inter-school basketball series will take place on March 10, at 1:30 p.m., against the Happy Valley School team.

The choir members are requested to join with the St. John's choir for the purpose of rehearsing the music of the sacred cantata, "The Crucifixion," to be given later. Practice will be at 7:30 in St. John's Church, Colwood, on Friday evening, March 16. Horace Simpson sang Sullivan's "Lost Chord" at the evening service on Sunday.

The many friends of Mrs. Cecil Letchfield of Lochmear, Atkinson Road, will be sorry to hear that she is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, having undergone a serious operation.

GASOLINE COST CHANGES

Halifax, March 8.—Increase in the gasoline tax to five cents a gallon and a ten per cent decrease in registration fees in Nova Scotia were announced in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. P. C. Black, Minister of Highways, effective at once. The gasoline tax previously was three cents a gallon. Simultaneous with the Government's action, gasoline companies announced a two-cent a gallon reduction in the price of gasoline.

GERTRUDE HUNTLY SHOWED PROMISE AT EARLY AGE

Life Story of Victoria Pianist Commences in New Canadian Magazine

The advent of a new woman's magazine is always attended by a stir of interest and when the magazine is a Canadian one and its first issue contains the life story of a Canadian pianist, whose home is in Victoria, then it becomes epochal.

In "The Beatelaine," just published by the Maclean Publishing Company, of Toronto, is begun the story of Gertrude Huntly, or as she is perhaps more familiarly known, Gertrude Huntly Green, of Victoria. It is a fascinating chronicle by Shiraz Lomas of this popular and gifted artist's rise to fame, telling of her childhood, her indefatigable study, and her attainment of success in her chosen career.

FADEBROOK'S TRIBUTE

The story of her meeting with Fadebroski and his tribute to her genius is told thus:

"Two crashing chords, ringing with finality, brought that most heart-searching love epic of Chopin's, the Fantasia in F Minor, to a close. In the silence that followed, the player at the grand piano and the man reclining in the depths of a big chair remained motionless, lost in the ebullient mood of the music.

"The pulse of a great city, of old London, beating faintly, a muted murmur through the walls of the building, increased the stillness of the secluded room which for the past hour had thrummed with the vital music of Schumann and Beethoven. Bach and Chopin, until the musician and the one who listened felt the presence of the masters very near.

"It was the man who broke the spell. Rising, he slowly drew his tall, distinguished figure to its full height and smiled down upon the sweet upturned face of the pianist who stood before him. Then, with a courteous old-world gesture, taking both her hands in his, he bent his massive head and gravely kissed her brow. As in a dream she heard him saying, 'My dear, you have everything. You are an artist. He paused. A great artist, he repeated with gentle emphasis. It was Fadebroski, world-famous piano virtuoso, revered and best loved by the great public, speaking as artist to artist, welcoming Gertrude Huntly to the ranks of the world's great ones.

"In the ante-room, an influential manager who had arranged this meeting, which later ripened into a warm acquaintanceship between the Polish musical genius and the Canadian pianist, was waiting. As they joined him, Fadebroski repeated his verdict, and added 'The world must hear her. She has a great future. Nothing can hold her back.'

EARLY APPLICATION

After telling of her childhood and her early musical tendencies, the article recalls:

"She absorbed music as she absorbed life, and as she passed from girlhood to womanhood, the beauties and depths that were revealed to her in her studies. From the beginning her parents placed her, under the best teachers available, and it is characteristic of Gertrude Huntly that she speaks always with public appreciation of those who encouraged her and brought out her best efforts. Her early teachers recall with affection their gifted, intelligent child, pupil who began her piano training in the highest honors in every period of her training, in both violin and piano."

FAIRFIELD UNITED SPECIAL MEETINGS

Prior to accepting his present pastorate in Vancouver, he ministered at Pembroke, Ont. Mr. Macintosh will preach on Sunday next, March 11, morning and evening. ENGLISH SINGERS ACCLAIMED BY HUGE AUDIENCE

Brilliant Aggregation Prove Perfect Artists in Ensemble Singing

One of the most absorbingly interesting musical events in the history of the city was the visit last evening of The English Singers at the Royal Victoria Theatre. Here are six singers, and real singers, too, who, having met together, by happy chance, in studios thought and rehearsal are worshipping at the shrine of a phase of a glorious national past and faithfully reproducing examples of that golden epoch of English music literature—the brilliant age of Elizabethan madrigals and church composers, with the British nation was abreast of the foremost in cultivation of and acquaintance with the art.

The title, English Singers, is well claimed. Their art is the English of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the days of Byrd, Weelkes, Morley, Gibbons and Purcell, all of whose works are so well represented in their programme. Seemingly they had not been long together before they began to learn that to sink their personalities was to gain the greater personality, and more comprehensive, the composite whole, thus achieving a combination about as unique and perfect as can be.

What glorious pianissimos are theirs, and in comparison, what full-throated and voluminous fortissimos! A wonderful art indeed, complete in skill and intellectuality, perfect in attuning and unanimity, sparkling in virility and effort, amazingly living in examples to all ensemble utterances, and to all lovers of part-singing, rich in color and picture, divine in beauty of tone, all reaching as high a standard as can be set by human beings.

Difficult indeed is it to discriminate when the whole was so perfect of rendition. Evidences of the delight of those present greeted all the numbers in enthusiastic and sincere rounds of applause. Making an especial appeal were Byrd's "Ave Verum," Francis Pilkington's "O Softly Singing Lute," Byrd's "Though Amaryllis Dance," wonderfully complicated in texture, the arrangements by Dr. Vaughan Williams of "The Turtles Dove," a Scottish folk-song arranged by Vaughan Williams; the three duets and trios, "I Spy Celia," "The Three Fairies," both by Henry Purcell, and "John, Come and Kiss Me," sixteenth century, arranged by E. W. Naylor; the famous madrigal by Morley, "The Silver Swan," the duet for two sopranos, "I Go Before My Darling" (Morley), and "My Phillis Bids Me Face Away" (Thomas Weelkes), a fitting concluding number, which, however, found the immense audience only too loath to leave their seats, again and again bringing the gifted singers to the platform, clamoring for further numbers, finally being rewarded with a Scottish folk song by Robert Burns.

One of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening was Morley's "Boy Is the Month of May," in which the onomatopoeic effect of the "Fa la la" was complete and charming.

The theatre was packed to the doors, showing present indications of great delight and appreciation throughout the programme in unusually hearty manner.

The event was the last of the series of four artist attractions brought to the city this season by the Victoria Ladies' Musical Club, to which every credit is due for its initiative and enterprise.

Trainmen Hosts at Jolly Dance

Novel decorations featured the seventh annual carnival dance of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers last night. The successful affair was held at the A.O.F. Hall and streamers of gaily-colored paper were pendant from the central chandelier to the walls with clusters of balloons to enhance the carnival effect. The platform on which the orchestra was seated had been covered with a striped awning to represent the rear end of a parlor car. Lighted on either side, and all around the walls were signals, colored lights and flags. In one corner a realistic replica of a huge locomotive was lighted with standard lamps.

Supper was served in the dining hall, with Mrs. Thompson in charge, and the tables were decorated with daffodils and greenery.

Those comprising the dance committee included Messrs. H. Brown, H. Richmond, L. Hawke, E. Cottell and A. Thompson. A number of railway officials were among the guests, including Mr. J. D. Fraser, Mr. F. E. Toho, Mr. H. Elliott (Vancouver) and Mr. Gross of Brandon.

V.A.S.C. DANCE

The Victoria Amateur Swimming Club will hold a dance on Thursday, March 15, in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street. This is the first dance which has been held under the auspices of the club for some time, and it is hoped that all the swimmers and their friends will attend. Len Acres' orchestra has been secured for the evening, and a good time is guaranteed. Refreshments will be served and dancing will be from 9 until 1 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained from club members or from any of the following sources: The Royal Dairy, the Beehive, Wengler's Limited and McMartin's leather store.

Conservative Social-Ward I Conservatives will hold a social and dance this evening in the headquarters, Campbell Building. There will be a musical programme and refreshments.

GIRLS DEFEAT BOYS IN HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Portia Society Speakers Attack and Beta Delta Crumbles

Living up to the traditions of their sex, the representatives of the Girls' Portia Society of the Victoria High School yesterday afternoon defeated the boys of the Beta Delta group in a keen debate. The girls took the affirmative and the young men the negative in the topic, "Resolved that a protective tariff is of more value to Canada than free trade."

The speakers who upheld the resolution were Dorothy Allan and Lauretta McCall. Their opponents were Roland Thorpe and Harry Edwards. The debate took place in the hall of the Victoria High School, and when the result of the controversy was announced there was animated applause.

Leslie Willoughby was the chairman of the meeting, and the judges were Harry Dee, Capt. Boyd and the Rev. J. G. Bompas.

Metropolitan Ladies' Aid—The members of the Ladies' Aid of the Metropolitan United Church held their monthly meeting in the vestry when a goodly number of members was present. The BENSON MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE • CHARLES SCHUBERT

"There was nothing subtle or in the least imaginative about the crime. Every feature of it pointed to an aggressive, blunt mind—a mind at once static, determined and intrepid, and accustomed to dealing with facts and situations in a direct, concrete and unequivocal manner. . . . I say, Markham, surely you're a good enough judge of human nature to read the indications, what?"

"I think I get the drift of your reasoning," the other admitted a little doubtfully.

"Very well, then," Vance continued. "Having determined the exact psychological nature of the deed, it only remained to find some interested person whose mind and temperament were such that, if he undertook a task of this kind in the given circumstances, he would inevitably do it in precisely the manner in which it was done."

"As it happened, I had known the Major for a long time, and so it was obvious to me the moment I had looked over the situation that first morning, that he had done it."

"The crime in every respect and feature, was a perfect psychological expression of his character and mentality. But even had I not known him personally, I would have been able—since I possess so clear and accurate a knowledge of the murderer's personality—to pick him out from any number of suspects."

"But suppose another person of the Major's type had done it?" asked Markham.

"We all differ in our natures—however similar two persons may appear at times," Vance explained. "And conceivable that another man, of the Major's type and temperament might have done it, the law of probability must be taken into account."

"Supposing there were two men almost identical in personality and instincts in New York, what would be the chance of their both having had a reason to kill Benson?"

"However, despite the remoteness of the possibility, when Pryfe came into the case, and I learned he was a gambler and a hunter, I took occasion to look into his qualifications. Not knowing him personally, I appealed to Colonel Ostrander for my information; and what he told me put Pryfe at once out of consideration."

"But he had nerves, he was a rash plunger, and he certainly had enough at stake," objected Markham.

"Ah! But between a real plunger and an old, level-headed gambler like the Major, there is a great difference—a psychological abyss."

"In fact, their animating impulses are opposites. The plunger is actuated by fear and desire; the cool-headed gambler is actuated by expediency and belief and judgment. The one is emotional, the other mental."

"The Major, unlike Pryfe, is a born gambler, and infinitely self-confident. This kind of self-confidence, however, is not the same as recklessness, though superficially the two are a close resemblance. It is based on an instinctive belief in one's own infallibility and safety. It's the reverse of what the Freudians call the inferiority complex—a form of egomania."

"The Major possessed it, but it was absent from Pryfe's composition; and as the crime indicated his possession by the perpetrator, I knew Pryfe was innocent."

"I begin to grasp the thing in a nebulous sort of way," said Markham after a pause.

"But there were other indications, psychological and otherwise," went on Vance. "The undress attire of the body, the toupee and the upstair, the inferred familiarity of the murderer with the domestic arrangements, the fact that he had been admitted by Benson himself, and his knowledge that Benson would be at home alone at that time—all pointing to the Major as the guilty person."

"Another thing: the height of the murderer corresponded to the height of the victim. This indication, though, was of minor importance; for had my measurements not tallied with the Major, I would have known that the bullet had been deflected, despite the opinions of all the Captain Hagedorns in the universe."

"Why were you so positive a woman couldn't have done it?"

"To begin with: it wasn't a woman's crime—that is, no woman would have done it in the way it was done. The most mentalized women are emotional when it comes to a fundamental issue like taking a life."

"That a woman could have coldly planned such a murder and then executed it with such business-like efficiency—aiming a single shot at her victim's temple at a distance of five or six feet—would be contrary to my view, to everything we know of human nature."

"Again: women don't stand up to all—a point before a seated antagonist. Somehow they seem to feel more secure sitting down. They talk better sitting; whereas men talk better standing. And even had a woman stood before Benson, she could not have taken out a gun and aimed it without his looking up."

"A man's reaching in his pocket is a natural action; but a woman has no pockets and no place to hide a gun except her hand-bag. And a man is always on guard when an angry woman opens a hand-bag in front of him—the very uncertainty of women's natures has made men suspicious of their actions when aroused. . . . But—above all—it was Benson's bald pate and bedroom slippers that made the woman hypothesis untenable."

"You remarked a moment ago," said Markham, "that the murderer went there that night prepared to take heroic measures if necessary. And yet you say he planned the murder."

"True. The two statements don't conflict, you know."

"The murder was planned—without doubt. But the Major was willing to give his victim a last chance to save his life. My theory is this: The Major, being in a tight financial hole with state prison looming before him, and knowing that his brother-in-law had sufficient funds to save him, plotted the crime and went to the house that night prepared to commit it."

"First, however, he told his brother of his predicament and asked for the money; and Alvin probably told him to go to the devil. The Major may even have pleaded a bit in order to avoid killing him; but when the latter's Alvin turned to reading, he saw the futility of appealing further, and proceeded with the dire business."

Markham smoked a pipe and he remarked at length, "I still don't see how you could know, as you asserted this morning, that the Major had planned the murder so as to throw suspicion deliberately on Captain Leacock."

CHAPTER LX.

"Just as a sculptor, who thoroughly understands the principles of form and composition, can accurately supply a missing integral part of a statue," Vance explained, "so can the psychologist who understands the human mind, supply a missing factor in a given human action."

"I might add, parenthetically, that all this blather about the missing arms of the Aphrodite of Melos, or Milo Venus, you know—is the utter fiddle-faddle. Any competent artist who knew the laws of aesthetic organization could restore the arms exactly as they were originally. Such restorations are merely a matter of context—the missing factor, if you see, simply has to conform and harmonize with what is already known."

He made one of his rare gestures of delicate emphasis.

"Now, the problem of circumventing suspicion is an important detail in every deliberate crime. And since the general conception of this particular crime was positive, conclusive and concrete, it followed that each one of its component parts would be positive, conclusive and concrete."

"Therefore, for the major merely to have arranged things so that he himself should not be suspected, would have been too negative a conception to fit consistently with the other psychological aspects of the deed. It would have been too vague, too indirect, too indefinite."

"The type of literal mind which conceived this crime would logically have provided a specific and tangible object of suspicion. Consequently, when the material evidence began to pile up against the captain, and the major waded vehement in defending him, I knew he had been chosen as the dupe."

"At first, I admit, I suspected the major of having selected Miss St. Clair as the victim; but when I learned that the presence of her gloves and hand-bag at Benson's was only an accident, and remembered that the major had given us Pryfe as a source of information about the captain's threat, I realized that her projection into the role of murderer was unpremeditated."

A little later Markham rose and stretched himself.

"Well, Vance," he said, "your task is finished. Mine has just begun. And I need sleep."

Before a week had passed, Major Anthony Benson was indicted for the murder of his brother. His trial before Judge Rudolph Hansacker, as you remember, created a nation-wide sensation.

Mrs. L. Schooley

London, Ont.—"Ever since I saw the great benefit my daughter received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during her second expectant period, I have never neglected the opportunity to recommend it to every prospective mother. I was with my daughter when she was miserable and sick. Through my advice she took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and from the very beginning she gained in health and strength, was able to be up, and attended to her household duties right up to the time she had, comparatively no suffering—the least I ever witnessed. My only regret has been that I did not know of this wonderful medicine when bringing up my own family."

Ex-Princess Victoria's Injunction Against Book Is Refused

Berlin, March 6.—The application of Alexander Subkoff and his wife, ex-Princess Victoria Schatunberg-Lippe, for an injunction against the author and publisher of a book dealing with their romance has been refused by a Berlin court.

The court also refused ex-Princess Victoria's request that her portrait be removed from the book. The refusal was based on grounds that she was a historical personage, because of her projected marriage to Prince Alexander of Bulgaria in 1884, which Prince Bismarck and Emperor William I opposed and prevented since Prince Alexander was not a member of a reigning house. The court, however, granted Subkoff's application for the removal of his picture on the ground that he was not a historical personage, and as such is entitled to bar the unauthorized publication of his portrait.

"HOPERS" HEAD FOR WATER HOLE

Thirty-one Miles Of Desolate Waste Must Be Traversed To-day

One Hundred and Fifty Foot-racers Leave Barstow, California, for Mojave Wells, With 96-pounder Olli Wattinen the Leader in Elapsed Time; Willie Kolehmainen Takes Train for New York Broken-hearted; Nicholas Quamawahu, Indian, Hobbles Back to Victorville and May Resume Later; Arthur Newton, of England, Forges Ahead

Barstow, Cal., March 8.—A band of modern pioneers blazing a new continental trail in quest of glory, and gold turned its back upon civilization to-day to plunge still deeper into the barren wastes of the Mojave Desert and to add another stretch to that already conquered in their marathon to the eastern coast.

To a tiny water hole the advance of the more than 150 foot racers was pointed to-day. The hardest will camp to-night at Mojave Wells, the pathway to which stretches through thirty-one miles of desolate waste. But it was a goal that put the trail blazers a trifle closer to their final objective, New York City, where $48,500 in cash prizes await the first ten, $25,000 to the winner.

Many faces that were familiar at the start of yesterday's stretch from Victorville to Barstow had vanished from the ranks of the racers. Most noted of the missing were Willie Kolehmainen and Gunnar Nielsen, great Finnish speedsters, who gave up the struggle on yesterday's thirty-six-mile desert grind. Kolehmainen boarded a train for New York broken-hearted.

At a late hour last night, was added the name of Nicholas Quamawahu, member of the Hopi Indian tribe of Arizona, who, having spent most of his life in desert country, was expected to increase his third day lead over the rest of the pack. First cramps halted the loping red man, but he doggedly continued on. Then a sprained ankle caused him to return to Victorville, and it was not known by officials whether he would continue in the cross-country grind. He was privileged, however, to resume by returning to the spot where he suffered his injury and start from there.

Barstow, Cal., March 8.—Yesterday's thirty-six-mile stretch of the coast-to-coast marathon was won by Gardner, Seattle, who, whooped into this control station after breathing a strong desert wind to a remarkable performance in 5 hours 15 1/2 minutes.

Forty-four-year-old Arthur Newton, hundred-mile running champion of England, put on a remarkable performance in winning second place for the day.

From a position of about eightieth in the line a few miles out of Victorville, yesterday morning's starting point, Newton forged steadily ahead to overtake and pass four score runners. He came into camp, but ten minutes behind the loping red man, covering the thirty-six miles in 5:25. Newton's total elapsed time for the 133 miles from Los Angeles to here is 19:40:30, against Gardner's 19:17:45.

Olli Wattinen, flying Finn, took third place when, after leading Newton until near Barstow, he was forced to fall a bit behind yesterday's runner, covering the thirty-six miles in 5:35.

WATTINEN IS LEADER This placed Wattinen in the lead for first prize money, his being the lowest total elapsed time. Gardner is in second place for total time with his 19:17:45, and Nestor Erickson, another Finn, ranked third, when he came in to chalk up a total of 19:20:32. Newton ranked fourth.

Two Englishmen finished sixth and seventh. Harry Bea, a staid, with a lap time of 4 hours 11 minutes and 35 seconds, while Peter Gavuzi of Southampton required 2 minutes and 15 seconds more for yesterday's stretch.

Willie Kolehmainen, star Finnish runner of New York City, was forced to drop out of the race by a strained tendon and swollen arches when three miles out of Victorville. The lowest Finn, who was a big favorite to be the first into New York City, terminus of the race and to capture the $25,000 first prize, pulled a leg tendon on Tuesday. He insisted on plodding up the terrific Cajon Pass grade to finish in thirty-ninth place, but yesterday morning, fighting lamely, carried on, lost his battle against strained muscles that had kept him in the lead during the first two days of the transcontinental race.

Nicholas Quamawahu, Hopi Indian of Arizona, who led the nearly 200 contestants in total elapsed time, also was incapacitated yesterday. Cramps seized him a few miles after the start and his attendants worked on him feverishly as he lay on his back beside the asphalt desert highway. The sturdy Hopi went back into the race but at a walking gait.

Kolehmainen was a dejected figure last night, hovering around the checking-in station to watch the more fortunate hoppers ramble in. His withdrawal from the transcontinental trek was a bitter blow to the Finn, which he blamed to excessive speed in the earlier laps when he ran away out in front of the crowd on both the first and second days of the race.

Gunnar Nielsen, Kolehmainen's Finnish running mate from New York City, also went the same way yesterday. Aching legs that refused to carry a weary body forced him to drop out. He likewise blamed earlier speeding for his early elimination.

Nestor Erickson, fleet Finnish pace setter on Tuesday, dropped back yesterday, but crossed the timing mark in fourth place for the day's stretch. His time of 5 hours 56 minutes gave him a total elapsed time of 19 hours 20 minutes and 32 seconds. J. J. Salo, Pasco, N.Y., moved up, covering the distance yesterday in 6 hours and 59 minutes for fifth place. His time from Los Angeles totals 20 hours 49 minutes and 30 seconds. Harry Bea took sixth with a lap time of 6 hours 11 minutes and 35 seconds, while Peter Gavuzi of Southampton required 2 minutes and 15 seconds more for yesterday's stretch.

Mixing Boxing With Politics Does Not Work and Boss Goes

Santiago, Chile, March 8.—Gerardo Sierra, president of the South American Boxing Federation, mixed politics with pugilism and now his resignation has been demanded.

He wrote an article for La Critica, Buenos Ayres newspaper, expressing dislike for the present Chilean Government. Because of this, the Chilean Federation passed a resolution asking for the resignation and characterizing his remarks as highly improper and unpatriotic.

OPENING MATCH OF INTER-CLUB SERIES IS SET

Uplands Golf Team to Travel to Colwood to Inaugurate Season Here

Rivalry Keen Over Outcome as "B" Teams at Uplands Must Be Considered

With Spring weather prevailing, the golf clubs are getting busy lining up their programmes for the year and the first of the inter-club team matches will be played this week-end. The Colwood and Uplands golf clubs will open the season with the "A" teams playing at Colwood and the "B" teams performing at Uplands.

There is keen rivalry between these two clubs and, while the main issue is between the "A" teams, the "B" sides promise to have plenty of fun themselves.

When the inter-club matches were first arranged the issue was solely between the "A" teams and a cup was at stake. In recent years, however, the "B" teams have poked their noses into the matter and think they have some say.

The "B" teams formerly played for the purpose of providing matches on the course of the "A" team which was away from home. Now the scores of the "B" team are computed with those of the "A" teams and the highest grand aggregate determines the winner of the day's play. RAC TEAM'S: Ladies' breast stroke, 100 yards; men's diving; ladies' diving; 200 yards; men's relay; novelty.

The draw for the "A" match is as follows:

THOSE GIRL GRADS —By JIMMY THOMPSON

Seven odd years ago there came out of the West one of the most dashing outfits of girl basketball that has ever carried the name and fame of Canadian athletic prowess to foreign parts. Percy Page, manager of the Edmonton Commercial Grads basketball team, surely knows how to pick his ladies, and to Paris, to defend their title against the world. Prominent among the stars of the defence is Kate Macrae, a veteran member of the team, who played with them on their previous victorious trip to Paris in 1924. Hattie Hopkins, now in her second year as a regular player, is a good example of the sort of latent talent which Percy Page takes in the raw state, and shapes through a period of careful coaching, in the ranks of the juniors, into full-fledged stardom.

"Grapefruit League" Is Running Wide Open and Teams Are Showing Form

Major League Baseball Teams Advance so Far in Their Training That They Are Able to Play Exhibition Games; Athletics Pound Out Victory Over Their Town Rivals, the Phillies; Ty Cobb Works Out and Seems in Good Condition

Atlanta, Ga., March 8.—Florida's so-called "grapefruit league" baseball season was on in earnest yesterday, with four of the ten major league clubs training in the state engaged in exhibition play. Meanwhile the others bided their time, continuing routine drill and pepper games in preparation for regular routine contests to come before the end of the week.

The Phillies and Athletics, both of Philadelphia, met in the first of the season's exhibition contests at Fort Myers, while the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Americans tied up at Bradenton.

All workouts were pointed to training games with recruit hurlers in general being primed for action. Veterans are expected to come in for only a small share of the playing this week.

BROOKLYN WORKS HARD

The Brooklyn Robins had probably the hardest day's drill since reaching Clearwater. Bunting and fielding practice consumed the morning programme and a practice game was staged in the afternoon. Doak, Petty, Elliott, Vance and McWeeny, all participated in the play, stunts arrived in camp to-day. The New York Yanks continued drilling their big offensive guns—Ruth and Gehrig taking extended workouts. VICTORY OVER CLUBMEN GIVES SAANICH LEAD

Youngsters Halt Weakened Tillicum Eleven 4-2 in Hayward Cup Game

Navy Hold Rennie 2-1 at Half-time But Bakers Run Wild in Second Half

Playing with only nine men throughout the entire game, the Tillicums Wednesday League soccer team put up a great fight against the Saanich United eleven in their Hayward Cup match played yesterday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park. Saanich finally won the fixture, 4-2, and as a result take the lead in the cup series.

The youngsters had to fight their hardest in order to win out over the weakened clubmen. At half-time the score stood 1-0 in favor of the Tillicums, but in the second half the fast pace began to tell on the nine men and the Saanich lads ran in four goals while the Tillicums were only able to score one more.

At Beacon Hill, Rennie and Taylor had a walkaway in their match with the Navy, winning out by the overwhelming score of 11-1.

TILlicums SCORE

In the first half the Tillicums had the edge for the opening twenty minutes, and their first goal came shortly after the start, when Jack Clarke hanged the ball past Tooby after a corner kick. The Tillicums team underwent some decided changes this week. Pete Sallaway, who usually plays in goal, came out to take the right full-back's position, while Arthur Johnson, the manager, went in goal. The clubmen's forward line consisted of three players.

After scoring their goal the Tillicums laid back to retain their advantage, and try as they might Saanich were unable to even up before half-time.

The second half had only been in progress ten minutes when Teddy Hawkes put Saanich ahead, five terms, heading the ball into the net after Brown had taken a corner kick.

SAANICH TAKE LEAD

Saanich continued on the attack and took the lead for the first time, when Ralph booted the ball into an empty goal after Johnson had come out to save. Carrying the ball down the field the Tillicums evaded up on a somewhat lucky goal. In attempting to take the ball through, Rigby kicked it too far ahead and Tooby rushed out to clear, but the ball rebounded off Ash, one of the backs, into the goal.

The youngsters worked harder than ever for the lead, but the Tillicums kept their goal clear, although there were several close shaves. Saanich finally took the lead on a high shot by Spellar that completely fooled the Tillicum goalie.

The final goal of the game came from a penalty awarded to Saanich by Clarke. Ash scored easily from the kick.

Scotty McKay refereed. Saanich United—Tooby, Ash, Barry, Moore, Love, Spellar, Brown, Stonier, Hawkes, Burns and Ralph. Tillicums—Johnson, Clarke, Sallaway, Davis, Wright, Brown, Hamer, Rigby and Plaster.

After holding Rennie & Taylor to a one-goal lead at half-time the Navy slipped badly in the second half allowing the Bakers to score nine goals while they failed to add to their score.

In the first half Tommy Hay and Purdy scored for Bemies while Peterson was responsible for the Navy's counter.

Rennie's in the second half were the only team and a runner. Cryt Speck drove home six goals while Tommy Hay got three more. The majority of the goals came after fine crosses by John Taylor or Dutchy Davis, the two wing men, who put up a fine exhibition. Speak's six goals stand as an individual record for local football this season.

Hevison refereed. The teams were as follows:

Rennie & Taylor—Lomas, Gilbert, Newman, Rutledge, Tuppman, Davis, Taylor, Hay, Speck, Purdy and Swart. Navy—Thwaites, Roberts, Prieau, White, Stewart, Oleave, Putman, Plumber, Patterson, Barr and Grosvenor.

Canmore is six goals down after the first contest on Tuesday night. Both teams will take the ice with their same lineups as in the opening game.

Canmore is conceded a much better showing owing to the fact of a day's rest, better acquaintance with ice conditions and the style of the Trail team, and the fact that the long train journey west has worn off considerably. A second record crowd is lined up.

Winnipeg, Man., March 8.—In one of the hardest-fought matches of the local season, Manitoba Varsity last night defeated Fort William 2-0, winning the inter-provincial Hockey League championship and the right to continue in the Allan Cup play-offs.

GRAPPLERS NEED CURLEY BACK TO RESTORE SPORT

Everyone Laughs at Thought of Wrestling Champiof;
Not So in Old Days

Jack Curley Had Boys Lined
Up Properly; Steinko Is Ballyhooed

In spite of the fact that Strangler Lewis scored a decisive and convincing victory over Joe Stecher in the recent contest that was billed for the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, the right to the Strangler's hold on the title is still being disputed.

The New York Boxing Commission claims that Hans Steinko has a better claim to the title than either Lewis or Stecher, and Paul Frenn, chairman of the Illinois commission, seems to have his doubts. Frenn made the terrible suggestion that an elimination contest be held between the two men to find the logical opponent for Lewis in a real and recognized championship bout.

The New York and Illinois bodies ought to be more conversant with the affairs of the many art of muscle tearing than they seem to be. The New York commission has William Muldoon, a wrestling champion of renown in years past, as a member, and the Illinois body has for its chairman a wrestler by profession and a college coach of the grappling art.

New York hasn't paid much attention to wrestling since the good Jacques Curley had to give up the promoting game and take some of the crumbs from the boxing table.

WHEN CURLEY REIGNED
In the good old days before Jimmy Walker got the boxing bill across in New York, wrestling was a big sport and Jacques Curley was the sport. When Curley was in command there never could be an argument about the rights of any claimant to the title.

In the good old Curley days Jack could not only tell you the name of the current champion in any weight division, but he could give you a good tip on who would be the next champion and the champion after him.

Wrestling got out of control when Wayne Munn threw Lewis out of the ring and set up a little dynasty of his own, and the sport drifted along until one day the New York commission made the startling admission that it didn't know who the wrestling champion was.

Nat Pendleton, a college boy, who had been complaining about the Curley dictatorship, appeared before the commission with a certified cheque for $2,500 and declared he wanted to challenge for the heavyweight wrestling championship.

THE DUKES OF MULDOON THEN gave the low-down on the racket when he asked: "Who is the champion, anyway?" There was a phone handy and Curley was in his office, but no one called him.

STEINKO IS CHALLENGER
After Lewis had taken two out of three falls from Stecher in St. Louis, the Strangler and his manager asked the press to make it clear that Lewis had not regained the heavyweight championship, but that he had successfully defended the championship.

The old familiar tune was then sung that Lewis would meet all the challengers in turn, and that old and equally familiar melody was repeated when Steinko walked up with forfeit money and a challenge.

The failure of the St. Louis contest to produce a recognized and acceptable champion and the distinction of the public to become aroused indicates that the game needs Jacques Curley again if it is to get out of the sticks.

One charming feature of the St. Louis contest was the intensity with which the occupants of the press seats and the ring-side seats peered at the contestants to see if they were really rascals or just in there puttin' on one of those things.

It seems to be the general opinion that the boys were really rascals; that if it was terrible it wasn't their fault. The readers above claim that a real rascal match was a dead thing and that the customers preferred shows.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR YOUNG MUSICIANS

Opportunity Offer Junior Competitors at Victoria Festival

Junior competitors in the Victoria Musical Festival will be interested in an announcement which comes from the prize committee of the association to the effect that a scholarship to the value of $50 will be presented by the Sprott Shaw School. This valuable prize will go to the candidate giving the highest marks in any class for those under nineteen years of age, and will carry tuition in the business college for a period of three months. This announcement is expected to stimulate entries in the classes for vocal, piano, violin, violoncello, cornet, and elocution which are filling up rapidly. This special prize is in addition to the medals and other trophies which go to the winners of each class and group of classes so that each entrant will have an opportunity of winning three prizes.

In order to attract as large an entry list as possible, the directors of the festival extended the closing date for copies of the syllabus and full particulars may be obtained from the festival office, 1623 Douglas Street, where entries should be registered.

Cumberland

Cumberland, March 8.—Benevolence Temple No. 9 Pythian Sisters held a well-attended whist drive and dance in the Memorial Hall on Saturday evening, twenty-three tables being in play. The prize winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. Slaughter; second, Mrs. H. Schrader; gentlemen's first, W. Brown Jr.; second, Miss A. Heywood (substitutes). Following the cards refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed till midnight. Jimmy Walker's Melody Four supplied the music.

Miss J. Smith and Miss K. Bartoldi were recent visitors to Nanaimo.

Mrs. H. Schrader and little daughter, of Richmond, Calif., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Coe.

Cumberland High School basketball teams were visitors to Alberni over the weekend. While in Alberni, the teams were the guests of the Alberni players, who spared no effort for their entertainment. An interesting feature of their visit was a tour of the plants of the Alberni Pulp and Paper Company, limited, and the Great Central Sawmills, where they were shown every step from logs to cut lumber.

The basketball games were held in the Community Hall, the Cumberland team finding the slippery dancing floor somewhat of a handicap. Cumberland Girls were victors in their game, coming out on the long end of a 14-4 score. Emma Pickett starred for the Cumberland Girls with five points, Edna Conrod, two; Beatrice Cavellero, two; and K. Brown, two. For Alberni, J. McDonald scored two points and K. Manning, two.

Cumberland Boys were slowed down considerably by the absence of two of their best players, Norman Freine and Victor Martindale, losing to Alberni by 22-46. Alberni played a wonderful combination that the local boys seemed unable to overcome. McDonald headed Alberni's scoring, with twenty-eight points to his credit. Patterson, twelve, and Coulthard, four. Jack Hill starred for Cumberland with ten points, H. Conrod, eight, and N. Hill, four. Following the games a dance was held in the Community Hall.

The annual meeting of the "Cronics" Burns Club was held Sunday evening, when the following officers were elected: Hon. president, T. Graham; hon. first vice-president, Dr. C. K. MacNaughton; hon. second vice-president, Mayor A. Maxwell; president, L. Brown; vice-president, S. L. Robertson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. Derbyshire; bard, E. Strachan; executive, T. Robertson; R. T. Brown, Boothman; J. Drummond, J. Derbyshire, and Messdames J. Westfield, R. K. Walker, G. Johnston, S. L. Robertson and J. Horne.

At a special meeting of the Board of School Trustees held Monday evening it was regularly moved and seconded that the request of the teaching staff that a cement tennis court be built to replace the present asphalt court be granted, the board to provide not more than $150 of the approximate cost of $310, the teaching staff to be responsible for the balance. The question of a donation toward equipment for the athletic classes now being carried on under the direction of Miss Aspey and H. Jackson, in the Anglican Church Hall, was discussed, and $15 was voted toward this worthy object.

LEGISLATION ON TIMBER CHARGES GIVEN APPROVAL

Amendments to the Forest Act, dealing with charges on pulp wood leases, was passed through all its remaining stages in the Legislature on Wednesday evening.

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, answering a question by R. H. Pooley, the leader of the opposition, said that if companies such as the Powell River Company, held back their sawmill timber, they would still be liable to royalties as fixed by the statute. The longer they held it, the higher royalty they would pay, he said. "Would it not be cheaper to hold back timber, under their own leasehold?" Mr. Pooley asked.

"It is cheaper to hold, under a pulp wood license, but, as soon as they start to cut, they will have to pay royalties back to 1914, by this amendment," Mr. Pattullo said. "The revenue from licenses is going down, and from royalty is going up, on account of the heavier cut."

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Fur Farmers' Association will hold a special meeting in the Agricultural Hall, Nanaimo, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

A meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be held to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 12.15 o'clock.

Mrs. Guy Goddard will give a reading of Samson Raphaelson's play, "The Jazz Singer," to-night before the Literary Society at Victoria College. The play is essentially modern and has recently been produced in New York with much success.

Sing, a Chinaman, charged with being found in possession of opium, was remanded a second time in the City Police Court this morning. The alleged drug is still in the hands of the government analyst and the case has been delayed until to-morrow morning.

The fourth of the series of preparation services preceding the special services to be conducted in the Fairfield Church next week, will be held to-night at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McCullough, 15 Cambridge Street. All are invited to attend.

Dr. Arthur F. Barton will commence a series of class lessons in the study of biology—the science of diagnosing disease from observations of the eyes—in the New Thought Temple this evening, at 8 o'clock. Printed lesson sheets will be provided. Particulars may be obtained by telephoning Dr. Barton at 5094L.

"I want to warn others that the property of motor car owners must be respected," said Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court to-day when he sentenced Harold Kellett, who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a rug from an automobile. "I am going to make you an example," said His Honor. "But I take into consideration the fact that you have never previously been convicted." One month's imprisonment was the sentence.

A meeting was held at Wesley Hall, Sidney, last evening for the purpose of organizing the North Saanich Horticultural Society. The following officers were elected: L. E. Taylor, president; Mrs. J. J. White, vice-president; Mrs. E. W. Hammond, secretary; A. MacDonald, treasurer; directors, R. Harrison, Mrs. J. S. A. Bastin, C. Toomer, F. Thornley, J. J. White, and committee. The meeting was addressed by P. R. Leighton, secretary of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Society, on the aims and objects of a horticultural society. He strongly advised the meeting to co-operate in the promotion of horticulture and floriculture rather than to use the society for commercial purposes. A general meeting of the society is called for March 28 at Wesley Hall.

AVIATRIX NOT TO FLY
London, March 8.—Hon. E. Mackay, titled British aviatrix and known aviatrix, to-day denied she had any intention of making a long distance aeroplane flight with Capt. Walter Hinchcliffe as pilot.

"I am very much annoyed about the whole matter, for I have no intention of accompanying Capt. Hinchcliffe," Miss Mackay said this afternoon. "The explanation of my association with the project is that I have a very small financial interest in it and he has allowed me to go up on test flights."

"Capt. Hinchcliffe's intention is to try to establish a new long distance record, but it really is uncertain yet where he is going."

Capt. Hinchcliffe's aeroplane, named the Adventure, has a speed of ninety miles an hour. Some of its gasoline supply is carried in aluminum cans. In the event of the machine's being forced down at sea, the cans can be emptied in two minutes and provide enough buoyancy to keep the plane afloat.

Saanich Summer Resorts Menaced With Typhoid

Typhoid fever is almost certain to break out at Moodyville and Brentwood during the coming summer, if something is not done to improve the water supply and drainage, it was reported by the health officer at a special meeting held last evening in the Saanich Municipal Hall at Royal Oak. This meeting was called by Dr. David Berns, Saanich health officer, and was attended by all residents of Moodyville and Brentwood.

Moodyville was in a particularly bad state, it was reported, as sewage from the sewers was polluting the well. Brentwood conditions were not quite so bad although there is great need for sewerage and sanitary drainage facilities, it was pointed out.

A committee under chairmanship of Reece Wiltshire-Crouch was appointed to investigate the matter and report. Investigations will also be made at Cordova Bay, Cadboro Bay and other Saanich Summer resorts.

BRITISH AIRMEN PLAN LONG FLIGHTS

Game Wardens Hold Posts By High Authority

Major M. Furber, chief game warden, this morning told the public accounts committee that he had no authority to engage superior or discharge game wardens, but that he would suspend a man anyway if he considered that he should be discharged. He believed the men were engaged by Order in Council and could only be discharged by that method. Major Furber was called to tell of conditions at Revelstoke, a game warden of that district having come under criticism in the committee. R. H. Pooley expressed surprise at the limitations of Major Furber's authority saying, "This is news to me."

ALIBI DEFENCE IN COUNTY COURT

Drug Hearing Nears Close After Four-day Session

Yue Ling, Third of the Accused, Examined To-day

Taking the stand for the defence in County Court to-day, a continuation of the hearing of Rex versus Wah Lung, Wong Seng and Yue Ling, the last named accused entered a categorical denial that he had any part in dealing leading to a sale or distribution of opium. Witness said further that Wah Lung, another of the accused, was not in his store at the time and place described by witness for the prosecution.

In response to questions by counsel for the defence, Stuart Henderson, the Ling told of his arrest at the hands of officers of the R.C.M.P. and the police, but said he had not known what it was for. As he walked in custody up the street to the police station another Chinaman met him and called out "What's the trouble?" or words to that effect. Yue Ling replied he did not know.

Cross-examined by M. B. Jackson, K.C., counsel for the prosecution, Yue Ling stated he also worked for four months with a theatrical troupe, but had not lately been employed in that capacity. The hearing is drawing to a close after four days of the hearing of evidence.

ROTARY GOVERNOR IS VISITOR HERE

District Governor Manning Guest at Luncheon of Clubmen To-day

Victoria Rotarians welcomed to-day District Governor Hank Manning when they dined at the Empress Hotel. Governor Manning was guest of honor, but he spoke very briefly of the good work Rotary International was accomplishing all over the continent and especially in Victoria.

"Had I time," said Mr. Manning, "I would compliment this club on its achievements, for I know you are doing wonderful work."

Mr. Manning was interested in the discussion of plans for financing the building of a nurses' home in connection with the Queen Alexandra Hospital at Mill Bay. The members discussed the project freely. A decision will be reached at next week's meeting, it is expected.

President James Fletcher, there was a fund of $3,400 on hand, with interest, for the use of the directors of the Rotary in whatever way they think best.

The club is considering the advisability of shouldering the whole financial responsibility of the nurses' home, which would obligate the members for an additional $4,000 or more. It is this obligation, which members of the club are anxious to consider further before reaching a decision.

An announcement from James Miller that next Sunday would be "Rotary Night" at the Capitol Theatre, when the band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment plays, was greeted with enthusiasm. A block of 100 seats will be reserved for Rotarians and their guests.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS FOR VOTE

Ratepayers to Ballot on Plan For Twenty-two Room Technical School

At a special meeting of the City School Board yesterday afternoon a resolution calling on the City Council to submit the technical school project to the ratepayers by way of a plebiscite was passed. The motion makes it obligatory on the council to put a ballot before the voters on the project to finance the undertaking. A three-fifths vote in favor of the by-law would be necessary to pass the measure.

The tentative proposal for the district technical school call for a main building with twenty-two rooms, to house the major portion of the work, and in addition four one-room workshops where metal working, electrical studies, woodworking and other arts would be carried on. Home economics, business training and other courses would be accommodated in the main building.

BUS DEPOT CASE

Defence Denies Existence of Any Agreement to Make Use of Terminals

Evidence in the three-day hearing before Mr. Justice Murphy Matson versus Olson drew to a close with the hearing of five witnesses called in rebuttal by the plaintiff to-day. Argument by counsel preceded the lunch recess.

J. S. H. Matson is suing H. B. Olson for $30,000 on a claim for breach of agreement as to the lease and use of the Broughton Street bus depot. D. S. Tait appears for the plaintiff and H. A. Maclean, K.C., for the defendant.

On the stand again this morning Mr. Matson stated he had stayed on the farm on December 7 and also on December 21 and 22 last year, at dates and times when the defence said conferences with the defendant had taken place in town. On December 7 he had sold a cow to Joseph Cass, taking his note for the purchase and depositing it at his office that afternoon.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Maclean witness admitted as his statement in a letter by himself to Herbert Wilson, manager of the Empress Hotel, in which he had classed Olson's alleged defection as a blessing in disguise, and said that the writer would prefer Olson to stay out of the depot.

COST OF DEPOT

Questioned as to the cost of the bus depot Mr. Matson stated the general cost to be $47,000 odd, exclusive of some $18,000 for the former church site, $3,000 known to be the cost of some equipment, in addition to the unknown cost of furnishings, flooring and other finishing work yet to be done.

F. E. Winslow, recalled to the stand on rebuttal, said no plans had been drawn to Mr. Olson prior to conferences at which the defendant had helped to suggest what form the plans should take. Witness denied that he had checked up on Olson to see what he would do at the ultimate date of acceptance or rejection of the proposals to enter the bus depot, December 7.

Joseph Cass corroborated evidence given by Mr. Matson as to the purchase of a cow. He had given his note for $300 for the animal, which was the debt he had purchased from the plaintiff, stated witness.

Questioned by Mr. Maclean, Mr. Cass said his memory for the due dates of outstanding notes was good. He had no difficulty in remembering the dates on this occasion, he affirmed.

James L. Tait, business manager of The Colonist, corroborated the call of Mr. Matson at the office on December 7, and the deposition of the Cass note for the cow. He had not seen the plaintiff again until December 24, when they went to do some Christmas shopping, said witness.

George W. Cessford, an employee on the Matson farm, corroborated evidence given by the plaintiff as to his presence on the farm on December 21 and 22. Cement work on a bull pen had been under way, said witness, and Mr. Matson had supervised the work.

In argument by counsel, Mr. Maclean for the defence opened first. Mr. Matson had been surrounded by technical advisers on all sides, he said, and had had no need to rely on the ideas of the defendant to build his bus depot. No agreement to use the depot had been entered into, despite a great number of conversations to that end, said counsel.

The plans spoken of were the plans of Mr. Matson, and could not be said to be Olson's plans at all. Defendant had at one time been willing to enter the building, if a suitable agreement had been reached, but no such agreement had ever been arrived at, he submitted.

The argument of D. S. Tait for the plaintiff will bring the case to a close this afternoon. Judgment will be reserved, it is expected, following the conclusion of the third day hearing.

DEFENDANT ON STAND

Taking the stand in his own defence yesterday afternoon, H. B. Olson, the defendant, denied that he had entered into any agreement with the plaintiff to use the bus depot. He had been spoken to by F. E. Winslow on a number of occasions, the latter suggesting that he lend his assistance to the project.

Witness said he had been shown plans already prepared, and had from this experience made a number of suggestions as to the construction of the depot, but was told by the plaintiff that he was not to be concerned with the project.

Mr. Olson denied specifically that he had at any time considered renting space in the building at $150 a month. He had been interested only in the control of the whole plant and the depot, said witness.

Mr. Olson said he found it impossible to exercise the option on a lease of the entire premises because he would not be given control, and also trouble had developed over the concession at the Dominion Hotel. He had been pressed by Mr. Matson and Mr. Winslow to go into the building, and had been told at one stage that his Empress Hotel concession would be in jeopardy if he did not do so.

He had given nothing but advice asked for in the laying out of the plans, concluded witness, and at no time passed his word, or entered into any agreement to use the premises.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)
Winnipeg, March 8.—Wheat: Local wheat market was mostly very dull today. Opening prices were about unchanged and the market held steady during the first part with a fair volume of buying by a leading continental house, which was sufficient to absorb the light offerings and a strike any slack out of the market. After this class of buying was finished there was no feature to the market, the support being purely local, but in the late trade there appeared to be some further liquidation by longs and prices declined about 1/2 cent. Seaboard estimated wheat sales in all positions overnight at 700,000 to 800,000 bushels Manitoba and durums with some small sales of rye. There was practically nothing doing in the cash market. Offerings were more liberal than they have been for some time with farmers selling their holdings, but buyers backed away from the result that the spreads on four, five, six and feed grades declined about 1 cent.

These are the grades that have been in most demand, a large support being given by elevators throughout the West. Issued a report to-day on the Canadian wheat situation.

Basing last year's crop in Western Canada at 425,000,000 bushels they estimate there is still 202,000,000 bushels in this country to spare for export after all home requirements have been provided for. Other elevator interests believe the crop was even larger.

Conditions over winter wheat territory were improved to-day, the support being purely local, but in the late trade there appeared to be some further liquidation by longs and prices declined about 1/2 cent.

Considerable snow has fallen over the three western provinces the past two days and more is promised, which will be of great benefit to the snow cover, but has mostly disappeared.

Winnipeg futures closed 1/2 to 3/4 lower, May and October being the weakest months.

Coarse grains—Trade was rather drab in these markets to-day with the demand rather slow. Prices were very firm during the first part of the day, but some scattered liquidation appeared and prices eased off. Oats closed 1/2 to 3/4 lower, barley about 1/2 lower and rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Flax—Displaying a firm tone with closing figures 1/4 to 1/2 up. Trade was only small but there was very little for sale and there are some local traders who are becoming a little more friendly to the market.

Inventor Elated By Television Success

John L. Baird Predicts Day in Near Future When Baseball, Football or Theatricals May Be Seen by People Many Miles Away

London, March 8.—Highly elated yesterday over the successful transmission of images of persons from a London studio to the steamship Berengaria in mid-ocean, John L. Baird, inventor of the apparatus, said that it was only a matter of time until one half of the world would not only hear what the other half was doing, but would see as well.

"Television," he said, "is merely in the development stage. The day is not far distant when Americans crossing the Atlantic or Pacific will be able to see in color, baseball, football, Englishmen playing cricket and other sports as well as theatrical performances, professions and any other scenes of action worthy of recording for persons scattered about the globe on sea and on land."

Miss Doris Selvey whose image was transmitted, as well as that of three men, said she greatly enjoyed the experience of sitting before a transmitter which carried her features to her fiancé, Stanley Brown, chief radio operator of the Berengaria and others who witnessed the test on the ship.

Miss Selvey knew nothing of the plan to include her in the test until Baird telephoned her saying he had received a message from Captain O. G. Hutchinson, managing director of the Baird Television development company, who was in charge of the tests on the ship requesting she come to the company's London studio.

The test began at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. London with a ventriloquist dummy with a "happy hooligan" smile was given an hour's try-out. Other sittings followed at intervals from twenty minutes to half an hour.

Baird, when he goes to America, contemplates taking a transmitting apparatus with him and sending images both to New York and London simultaneously.

MAGNES BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warms Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Blaud's Magnesia in a little water after meals, with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them. They are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Blaud's Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time, because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Blaud's Magnesia, especially prepared for stomach use. (Adv.)

SEIZURE OF COAL HARBOR ILLEGAL U.S. JURY FINDS

Was Outside Jurisdiction of U.S. District Court When Seized Off Farrallons

San Francisco, March 8.—A verdict declaring the seizure of coal harbor was outside the jurisdiction of the United States District Court when she was seized by the coast guard off the Farallon Islands, February 17, 1926, was returned by a Federal jury here late yesterday. The vessel and her cargo of liquor have been held here since the seizure.

The court immediately exonerated the bonds of the vessel's captain and crew. The court had already conceded that the coal harbor was beyond the twelve-mile limit, and based final arguments on the contention that the vessel was within an hour's sailing time of the coast when a speedy contact boat's sailing ability was taken as the criterion.

In returning its verdict, court attorneys said the jury fixed ten miles an hour as the speed of an ordinary contact boat can make in traveling to and from a rum carrier.

The defeat of the Government's case was considered certain after Chief Justice W. B. Johnson, who commanded the coast guard cutter when that cutter seized the coal harbor, admitted on the witness stand Tuesday that he had previously testified falsely regarding the run of the vessel when seized, admitting that radio bearings showed the position as twenty-three miles off the coast.

T. E. Cormac, legal adviser of the British Consul here, was in court when the verdict was returned. Court attaches interpreted his presence as an indication that Great Britain contemplates action to get damages for British owners of the seized vessel.

The men in the forward part of the vessel were killed by the explosion. The second explosion exploded the tanker broke in two and sank.

Several Small Craft Building In Local Yard

Pacific Shipyards Will Launch Trolling Boat Here Next Week

Pleasure Cruiser Also Building; to Start Three Others Soon

With three small craft already launched from the yards this year, two now nearing completion on the blocks and orders for three more, the Pacific Shipyards, in charge of T. Yoneda, is operating with all hands at the present time.

Next week the yards will launch a thirty-four-foot trolling vessel for operation out of Nootka Sound by John Bond. The upperworks of this craft are now being completed. She has a nine-foot beam and is powered with a fifteen-horsepower Kelvin engine.

The other vessel now on the blocks is a pleasure cruiser building for S. Fairclough of Coal Island. This will also be launched in the near future. She is powered with a sixteen-horsepower Kelvin engine, and has a length of thirty-five feet and a beam of nine feet six inches.

During the next few months the yards will be employed in the construction of a forty-five-foot fish carrier for use in cannery work on the Northern B.C. Coast, a thirty-two-foot pleasure yacht and a thirty-four-foot trolling vessel.

Three trolling craft of the same type as the one to be launched next week have recently left the yard and are now operating in the West Coast fish trade.

Waterfront men here explain that the new federal regulations governing setting for salmon has caused a number of fishermen in inland waters to take up trolling for the deep-sea fish. This is expected to result in the building of a considerable number of small craft in local shipyards.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly and the Wooden Shoes

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD R. GARRIS

Uncle Wiggly, together with Baby Bunty and Vallie, the new little Valentine rabbit child, were sitting on top of a big paper kite being blown through the air, far, far away.

"Where do you think we are going, Uncle Wig?" asked Vallie, when the rabbit gentleman with Baby Bunty on his back had climbed up the kite string to sit beside the Valentine bunny on the kite itself.

"That is hard to say," answered Mr. Longears, dancing his feet over the edge of the kite, on top of which he was perched. "We'll know where we are when we get there."

"Is it far?" asked Bunty, smuggling up close to Uncle Wiggly on one side, while Vallie sat on his other side. "Do you think we'll go far away?"

"If this March wind keeps on blowing we may go very far," replied the rabbit gentleman, looking down at the ground below. They were skimming along like an aeroplane, away up above the church steeples.

"I'm glad," laughed Bunty. "I always wanted to travel."

"So did I, and have adventures," added Vallie. "But I never thought we'd go sailing on my kite."

For it was Vallie's kite to begin with. Uncle Wiggly made it for the little bunny girl, and when Mrs. Longears laughed at her husband for wanting to fly kites at his age he told her that old men in China flew kites so he didn't see why he couldn't.

Along and along they sailed.

So he and Vallie did. But the wind was so strong that it carried Vallie up with the kite and then, when the string became tangled around his paw, Uncle Wiggly was also taken up. Baby Bunty tried to hold Uncle Wiggly down by his coat tails but she, too, was taken up.

Then Uncle Wiggly thought the best thing for him and Bunty to do would be to climb up the string and sit on top of the kite, where Vallie had already taken her place. So this was done and now we find all three of them sailing along through the air on the kite.

Along and along they sailed, and the kite was so big and strong, and Uncle Wiggly's pink nose twinkled so bravely, that none of them felt afraid. Uncle Wiggly was a little worried over whether or not he would get back to his hollow stump bungalow in time for supper. But Vallie and Bunty felt very jolly, for they loved traveling.

Over the water and over the land sailed the kite. Across the sea and many countries it traveled, for the March wind was blowing fast, and pretty soon, looking down, Bunty pointed at something and said:

"See the pinwheels! Oh, look!"

"Those aren't pinwheels," answered Uncle Wiggly with a laugh.

"They look just like Fourth of July pinwheels and they're going around and around," remarked Vallie.

"They are wind-mills," said Uncle Wiggly. "Big, whirling wind-mills. I begin to know where I am, now."

Then, all of a sudden, Vallie, leaning as far as she dared over the side of the kite, exclaimed:

"I smell cheese! Dutch cheese! I wish I had some!"

"That settles it!" cried Uncle Wiggly. "Wind-mills and Dutch cheese! We must be over Holland!"

"What's Holland?" asked Baby Bunty.

"It is a far country I have always wanted to see," answered the rabbit gentleman. "Yes, we have reached Holland," he said in delight.

By this time the kite was lower down. It was flying over a city near a big body of water, like an ocean, with small canals here and there. And, looking down, Uncle Wiggly and the little rabbit girls could see men and women, boys and girls looking up at them. As the kite dropped nearer Holland, there came to the ears of the rabbit travelers a curious, clattering noise.

"What's that?" asked Bunty.

"Wooden-shoes," answered Uncle Wiggly.

"Oh, yes, look!" cried Vallie. By this time she and the others could see that many of the Holland men, women, boys and girls were wearing shoes of wood, which made a curious clattering, clattering sound on the cobble stones of the street. There were thousands of wooden shoes.

"Well, I hope these Holland wooden shoe people will be glad to see us," said Uncle Wiggly as the kite dropped lower and lower. And then, all of a sudden Bunty said, very quietly:

"I beg your pardon, Uncle Wig, but I think we are going to fall ker splash into the water!"

Mr. Longears looked down and said:

"Bunty, you are right. We are going to have a bath." And what happened after that I shall tell you in the next story which will be about Uncle Wiggly and the Dutch cheese. And the lollipop will be happy if you will fasten a piece of oolich on its stick to make an umbrella out of it to keep the gold-fish dry.

To-morrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1928

Benefic aspects dominate in the planetary government of this day, according to astrology.

There is a way making for stimulation of energy and increase of efficiency, which will be beneficial to business.

The trend will be more and more toward stable and steady lines of work than toward speculation, while this rule prevails.

Organization will be more and more sought in all lines of business and the widest co-operation will mark enterprises it is foretold.

The seers declare that while wealth will expand greatly in 1928, this development should be watched as a symbol of national power which will have its perils, owing to the force of envy. Farmers certainly should profit greatly in the coming crops, if astrology is to be taken seriously.

Food values will rise and the earth will be filled more efficiently than ever, before, the seers prophesy.

Big business methods will be extended to agriculture and immense amounts of money expended in developing the earth's resources.

The stars seem to promise to women increase in intellectual gifts as well as great access of beauty.

America is to be as famous as Greece was for the physical development of the new race born in the United States since the World War. It is foretold. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many pleasures.

This should be a most fortunate rule for writers and editors, while advertising will be in greater demand than formerly.

Children born on this day probably will be exceptionally talented. They should have a feeling for form which insures first rate draftsmen.

Purity of Milk Supply Worries House As First Milk Debate Commences

Milk, which has been the storm centre of discussion in the Agricultural Committee and in the lobbies ever since the Legislature started work, reached the floor of the House for the first time yesterday. Scarcely had the subject been introduced by an apparently innocuous motion, when the House found itself in a veritable sea of milk. While this first formal introduction to the milk problem gave members an entirely new idea of the whole system of milk production and distribution in this Province, it got no further and discussion was adjourned to be resumed later.

In an hour of non-partisan talk on amendments to the Milk Act—the existing statute governing milk sale, not the Fraser Valley farmers' proposed pooling measure—it developed that British Columbia people who buy ice cream often eat a product made from imported and sometimes rancid butter; that British Columbia farmers do not make such a product, but cannot prevent its importation and sale here; that no old-fashioned buttermilk is sold nowadays on a commercial scale, as its place has been taken by skim milk treated with a Bulgarian microbe; and that in standardizing milk it is necessary sometimes to add skim milk, but the consumer generally is getting milk with more butter fat than official regulations require.

URGES AMENDMENTS

The lengthy milk debate was provoked by amendments to the Milk Act proposed by Frank Browne, Labor member for Burnaby. These amendments would forbid the sale of milk adulterated in any way, or milk from which butter fat or cream has been extracted and then replaced. Mr. Browne declared that it was impossible to manufacture a satisfactory product by taking the cream out of milk and then putting it back again in fixed quantities so as to conform with legal milk requirements. This process, he said, is not fair to the farmers who intend to sell real milk to the public and whose product is made artificial to milk plants.

"The only purpose of this manufacturing process seems to be to increase the milk available, although the great problem of the milk producers is the surplusage of milk," he said. "What the public is getting now is skim milk with the addition of some cream, that's all."

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, declared the Federal Dairy Industry Act covered this whole question by forbidding the sale of diluted milk, or milk from which cream has been extracted, or milk adulterated in any way.

Joshua Hinchliffe, Victoria Conservative, after examining the Federal statute, asserted that it did not cover the question, as it only forbade the sale of diluted milk to bottling works. It did not forbid its sale direct to the consumer, he stated.

NO BUTTERMILK

This roused Major R. J. Burde, Alberta Independent, to a vigorous condemnation of present milk-handling methods.

"There is no more of the good old buttermilk," he protested, "and the public is being fooled by the milk producers."

In place of the old buttermilk made in butter manufacture, he said, the public to-day must drink skim milk, which has been added a Bulgarian germ. This product, which was not real buttermilk as old-timers understood it, sells for sixty cents a bottle and is not worth sixty cents a gallon, he affirmed. Mr. Barrow agreed that old-fashioned buttermilk was not manufactured commercially any more, as modern butter-making processes do not produce it. Instead, a germ is used to create lactic acid in skim milk to produce the modern buttermilk.

"That being so, is it true that ice cream sometimes is made of butter which is turned back into cream?" Major Burde demanded.

"That is right," Mr. Barrow said. "In the public aware of that?" the Alberta member asked.

Players Well Received Will Repeat Skits

Crystal Garden Comedies Becoming More and More Popular

Theatregoers at the Crystal Garden have shown whole-hearted approval of the "double bill" and the Co-Optimist Comedy Company will repeat this entertainment to-morrow evening. At 8:30 o'clock the curtain will rise upon a short one-act farce. Miss Mary Campbell and Richard Blomfield will offer in this witty play some clever dialogue.

The main attraction of the evening will be a rollicking comedy entitled, "The Duchess of Baywater." The cast is an exceptionally strong one and the play is a satirical skit upon the necessity of present day aristocracy entering the realms of trade. Mr. Leggs will take the part of the crusty old gentleman who is intolerant of the new order of things. Miss Lorna Lewis, Noel Jones and Stephen Leggs each have parts that contribute much good humor and witty repartee. The evening's entertainment concludes with two hours of dancing.

SUMAS LEGISLATION ADVANCES IN HOUSE

Legislation designed to give Sumas farmers relief from reclamation costs advanced in the Legislature last night through committee stage and will soon receive final passage.

During committee stage Conservatives endorsed the Government's plan to relieve land owners but regretted that the measure did not go further in this direction.

AT THE THEATRES

NEW OUTLAW HAS BEEN ADDED TO TOM MIX'S STABLE

"The Buzzard," an outlaw new to the film, has just been added to Tom Mix's stable and makes her premiere appearance to theatre patrons in "The Arizona Wildcat," Fox Film's latest release.

"The Buzzard" is an eighteen-year-old mare, which the Mix outfit captured on the desert while making "No Man's Gold." She had no brand and apparently had never known what a rope, bit or saddle meant. Mix's cowboys chased her in relays for three days before she became exhausted and was captured, but in spite of her exhaustion she gave her captors a hard fight. Mix is the only man who has succeeded in sticking to "The Buzzard's" saddle.

"The Arizona Wildcat," which is at the Columbia Theatre for a three-day showing commencing to-day, was written for Tom Mix by Adela Rogers St. Johns.

CHESTER CONKLIN STARRING IN FILM NOW AT COLISEUM

Paramount has assembled one of the most amazingly amusing bunches of human oddities in one film that local theatre audiences have seen in many a day, according to reports from Hollywood, from which point a print of "Two Flaming Youths" has been shipped to the Coliseum Theatre and is showing this week.

W. C. Fields and Chester Conklin, the latter celebrated because he made the vaudeville moustache famous, have been made a comedy team, and their talents will be exhibited when "Two Flaming Youths" is screened.

STORY OF SOUTH IS FEATURED ON PLAYHOUSE SCREEN

Nestled among the rolling hills a little more than eighty miles from Los Angeles, lies a cool, placid lake. Inviting and verdant, the lake country seems never to have been trampled by the ruthless feet of man. No tourist's rags tend to mar the pleasant vista. As far as they have been able, the rangers have kept the anglers out. This oasis is Hughes Lake, and there Stuart Blackton screened the Warner Bros. production, "Hell-Bent For Heaven," which comes to the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

CAPITOL FILM IS STORY OF FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION

One of the big points of "Beau Sabreur" is the fact that the comedy element has not been lost, something rare in productions of this magnitude. Comedy plays a vital part in the Paramount picture and it is injected in several sequences.

DOMINION PICTURE IS STORY OF LIFE IN RURAL ENGLAND

Many picturesque places in England were used by Herbert Brenon and his company as backdrops for scenes in "Sorell and Son," now at the Dominion Theatre. After working for months in Hollywood, making interiors, the Brenon unit of the Joseph M. Schenck organization went abroad for the exterior "shots."

At historic old Marlow several scenes were made from the ancient Paper Mill Bridge, with Marlow church and bridge in the distance, showing "Molly Roland" (Mary Nolan) and "Kit Sorell" (Nils Asther) in punting and romantic episodes. Crowds thronged the bridge and the river bank to watch the American motion picture company work. Especial interest by the English was evinced in the scenes along the tow-path in which "Stephen Sorell" (H. B. Warner), "Thomas Roland" (Norman Trevor), and "Kit Sorell" as a boy (Mickey McLean) took part.

"THE BLOOD SHIP" COMES NEXT WEEK TO VARIETY THEATRE

Walter James, who plays Captain Swope in Columbia Pictures' gripping new production, "The Blood Ship," at the Variety Theatre next week, has climbed the ladder to screen success in quick time. He studied law at Georgetown University—but the stage lured and he joined a stock company. He started his picture career with D. W. Griffith, and on coming to the coast played his first role with Tom Mix. James sprang into screen fame with his characterization of the father in "Little Annie Rooney," with Mary Pickford. He played with Lon Chaney in "The Monster," taking a part he had previously played on the stage with Crane Wilbur. He also appeared in Harold Lloyd's comedy, "The Kid Brother," James' now cast in "The Blood Ship," and was educated in Washington, D.C.

MANHATTAN SNAPSHOTS

New York, March 8.—None of the famous theatrical clubs of New York allow actors to bring their wives, sweethearts or women friends.

These men whose money for the tired actor when he is not entertaining the tireless esthete. Here, about their dinner tables, pool tables or card tables, they gather the famous names of the footlights world to tell stories out of school, many of which are not intended for feminine ears. Here they may gather without any wifely intrusion and with none of the jazz influence that is so likely to follow in the wake of actors' gathering at places.

"The Players' Club," one of the oldest and most dignified, opens its doors to "the ladies" but one night a year. The Lambs, Friars and the others make their various appeals to the bachelor instincts.

A year ago the expression "big butter and egg man" swept the country. When introduced, as a title to a play, it referred to a prosperous, well-fed business man whose money was used to back the theatrical productions. It came to refer to any of the fat pursed gentry who go about Broadway making expansive gestures, their faces pictured as the chumps who were easy marks for the gay glib of Broadway.

Just now the "butter and egg" man has vanished from the map. Most of this season's productions on Broadway have been financed either out of Wall Street or by the private capital of some over-night millionaire of the stock market. As usual the greatest successes are put on by the old line producers.

As for the easy spenders, Broadway is wondering where they are. The "sucker" night clubs have the taste of dust in their mouths and the successful ones have the patronage of the "people of importance," who do not come under the heading of "easy spenders." For this reason, the midnight resorts of the "big street" are not faring so well. The "butter and egg man," if he has not completely disappeared, has at least changed complexion so that it is difficult to recognize him.

And speaking of putting on shows, the process of creating a star changes little from season to season. There are certain recognized celebrities who, but for temperamental reasons, do not need their names in the bright lights. And getting an unknown name into the electric bulbs for a short sprint of stardom is only a matter of money. The process is simple. Just glance along Broadway until you find a play that can be picked up for some trifling sum. Perhaps you can get a "revival" for a few thousand dollars. For a few thousand more you can put it on. Then get on the phone and tell the "girl friend" you have a play for her. Cast her in the lead, put her name in the bright lights—and there you are. If, by accident she really can act, you

"THE BLOOD SHIP" COMES NEXT WEEK TO VARIETY THEATRE

Walter James, who plays Captain Swope in Columbia Pictures' gripping new production, "The Blood Ship," at the Variety Theatre next week, has climbed the ladder to screen success in quick time. He studied law at Georgetown University—but the stage lured and he joined a stock company. He started his picture career with D. W. Griffith, and on coming to the coast played his first role with Tom Mix. James sprang into screen fame with his characterization of the father in "Little Annie Rooney," with Mary Pickford. He played with Lon Chaney in "The Monster," taking a part he had previously played on the stage with Crane Wilbur. He also appeared in Harold Lloyd's comedy, "The Kid Brother," James' now cast in "The Blood Ship," and was educated in Washington, D.C.
